Only One Incumbent On the School Board Plans to Run Again

With nearly a month to go before the filing deadline, only one of the three incumbent School Board members has announced she will run again.

Betsy Wilczek, who holds a Borough seat on the Board, said she will run for the one Borough opening, a full three-year term. In 1993 and 1994, Ms. Wilczek, a Mercer Street resident, successfully won election to two successive one-year terms.

There will be two Township seats on the ballot in the April 18 School Board election and budget referendum. They are held by current Board President David Robbins and former Board President John Clearwater. Both are completing their first term on the Board.

Mr. Robbins, who lives on Riverside Drive, said he did not know at this time whether he would seek re-election. "It has been a difficult three years," he said. "I am just thinking it over. The decision could go either way."

Mr. Clearwater, his voice sounding discouraged, said he would not run again because he had come to the conclusion that the various entities that control the course of public education are fundamentally incapable of reforming themselves. The only way to achieve reform, he said, is through the political process.

Among these entities he cited the New Jersey School Boards Association, the New Jersey Teachers Association, and the State Department of Education, as well as the private sectors that are intertwined with them, including legal counsel and health benefit firms.

"It's not the teachers or the administrators or the people in Princeton who have created this system," he said. "It's an awful system."

Mr. Clearwater, a resident

READY, SET, DANCE: More than 250 people came to the Arts Council this past Saturday for a night of swing dancing. A half hour of instruction by Geratyn Berkery was followed by a D.J. dance party from 8:30 to 11:30. The dancers learned a combination of West Coast swing and jitterbug to up-tempo music of the thirties through the nineties. The Arts Council's Mark Garmond called the event "a tremendous success."

American Repertory Ballet Exploring Merger with the Garden State Ballet

The American Repertory Ballet, parent organization of the Princeton Ballet School and the American Repertory Ballet Company, has begun merger talks with the Garden State Ballet.

During the next four months selected board members of each organization will meet to assess the likelihood of forming one company that will combine the respective resources of the two entities. The talks are the result of preliminary discussions that took place last summer.

According to Michael Batt, chairman of the American Repertory Ballet board, Joel Sobow, his opposite number on the Garden State Ballet board, telephoned last summer and proposed that the two organizations consider merger. Garden State Ballet had recently lost its artistic director, Peter Anastos, and before it undertook a search for a replacement, decided to see if there would be merit in merging with another ballet company.

Mr. Batt, a vice president at Merrill Lynch in Plainsboro, says the merger talks are not to be construed as an indication that American Repertory Ballet is once again in financial difficulty. In 1993, disappointing revenues and mounting debt brought about a financial crisis in which administrators and staff were asked to work at no pay until funds could be raised to cover their salaries. The managing director and artistic director both resigned.

The trustees managed to raise $100,000 in a short period of time, and by the end of June announced that they had enough money to put the staff and dancers back on the pay roll. Septime Webre, a dancer and choreographer with the company for seven years, was named artistic director, and Harris Ferris, executive director of Empire State Ballet in Buffalo, N.Y.,

A Single Tractor Trailer Involved in Two Accidents

A single misguided tractor trailer was involved in two separate accidents and two arrests on Saturday, reported Township Police.

The 18-wheeler in question was traveling toward Princeton on Mercer Street some time before 10:21 p.m., said police, when its driver made a not-altogether-successful right turn on to Olden Lane.

According to police, the 1992 Kenworth truck knocked down a traffic light pole on the southwest corner of the intersection and continued down Olden Lane.

Police were called by an area resident, and arrived on the scene to find the damaged truck parked on Hardin Road, some distance from the intersection.

There were two people in the truck, 33-year-old Raymond Theus, of Los Angeles, Calif., and 24-year-

Missing Person Search Ends with Discovery Of Body in Stony Brook

Princeton Township's second missing persons search in two days ended unhappily on Saturday morning, when volunteers discovered the body of a Princeton Township man who had drowned in Stony Brook.

E. William Dey, 67, of Brearley Road in Russell Estates near Edgerstoune Road, was the victim of suicide by drowning, said Assistant Prosecutor Lewis Korngut on Tuesday, reporting the findings of the Mercer County Medical Examiner.

The search for Mr. Dey began at 1:14 p.m. on Friday afternoon, when his wife, Roswitha Dey, reported him missing. She told police that she had last seen her husband at 10 a.m. in Lawrenceville, where they had not for breakfast. She had expected him home at 1 p.m. and was concerned because he had been suffering from depression.

Area police departments were instructed to be on the lookout for Mr. Dey's blue 1989 Mercedes.

The Township Police were called at 4:20 p.m. by a woman who reported that while walking on the footpath between Rosedale and Edgerstoune roads, she had come across Mr. Dey's car with the door open and the engine running. The car was parked approximately 100 feet from Stony Brook.

Mr. Korngut confirmed on Tuesday that "a hose or pipe" was found near the exhaust pipe of the car. He did not know if exhaust fumes had been directed into the automobile.

When the car was discovered, the Township police began to mount their second full-scale search in the space of two days. Many of the same people who had been involved in the successful search for

Ballet Merger

was recruited to be the new managing director. Mary Pat Robertson continued in her role as director of Princeton Ballet School but on par in terms of administrative status with Mr. Webre and Mr. Ferris.

Mr. Batt says American Repertory Ballet survived that economic crisis and has been doing "incredibly well" ever since. "Last year was incredibly successful," he says. "We received tremendous reviews. We've stabilized our finances and made inroads in our debt." During the 1994-95 season, ARB will have its most extensive touring season ever, presenting 30 performances nationally and touring through 12 states and Canada.

Performances of The Nutcracker, which are counted on to boost the company's revenue each year, achieved the trustees' expected target, Mr. Batt says, with an especially strong Princeton season.

Why then the merger talks?

"We've always had as a goal a desire to offer a broader scope of work in a wider geographic area within New Jersey," says Helen Pollak, a member of the American Repertory trustees who is also chairperson of the Merger Investigatory Committee. Ms. Pollak concurs with Mr. Batt's view that the company has come a long way from its acute financial problems of a few years ago.

She cites the new leadership and a solid board of trustees who have "turned the company around," as she puts it. "There are a lot of positive things going on," Ms. Pollak adds. "We've had an extraordinary season, gotten great reviews and achieved most of our goals."

Entitled by Arts Center

Mr. Batt acknowledges that the Newark Arts Center currently under construction in downtown Newark is a drawing card for affiliation with the Garden State Ballet, which is based in Newark. A press release accompanying the announcement of the merger talks states the Garden State Ballet has been involved in New Jersey's art scene for more than 30 years — about as long as Princeton Ballet.

Founded by Fred and Evelyn Daniel, its mission has been "to present New Jersey residents a classical and contemporary repertoire that is both rooted in the ballet tradition and performed by the highest caliber of professional artists," the press release states.

20 TT Readers Needed

A week before the TOWN TOPICS Christmas Fund Drive ends on January 31, the fund stands at $39,448.19.

We wonder if there are 20 readers who have not contributed as yet who would be willing to donate $25 apiece? This would enable us to reach $40,000, an incredible achievement over a six-week period in times of continued economic uncertainty. The previous record was $26,645.54, set in 1991-92.

Since every penny goes to Family Service Princeton Area to use helping selected families and individuals overcome hurdles in their lives and get on better footing, we are interested in raising as much as we can.

All contributions are tax deductible. Checks may be made out to TOWN TOPICS Christmas Fund and sent to this newspaper at P.O. Box 664, Princeton 08542.

In addition to presenting performances throughout the state, Garden State Ballet has made efforts to promote "dance literacy" to present and future audiences through studio workshops, youth concerts and outreach educational activities.

Princeton Ballet was founded by Audree Estee and renamed American Repertory Ballet in 1991. In addition to Princeton Ballet School, one of the largest nonprofit ballet schools in the country, it sponsors Princeton Ballet II, a pre-professional training company, career track classes for students intent on making ballet their career, and an after-school dance program called Dance Power for inner city New Brunswick students.

According to Ms. Pollak, the Merger Investigatory Committee will be comparing the missions, philosophies and directions of both companies, "and discuss whether or not those ideals might be compatible enough to be molded into one operation."

The Committee will investigate how consolidation of the two companies could achieve increased state-wide impact, greater audience attraction, expanded community reach of programming, strengthened infrastructure, expanded artistic scope, increased efficiencies of management and broadened support base.

old Ladonna R. Burton, of Baltimore, Md. The officers determined that Theus had been driving, and believed him to be intoxicated.

Police surmise that Theus, whose truck was bound for Newark, had made a wrong turn on Route 1 and got lost.

He was arrested and charged with a variety of offenses: driving while intoxicated, DWI in a commercial vehicle, leaving the scene of an accident, failure to report an accident, driving with a suspended Commercial Driver's License, careless driving, and driving an overweight vehicle on Mercer Road.

While Ms. Burton remained with the truck, Theus was taken to police headquarters. He was processed and held for lack of $7,500 bail.

Keep on Truckin'

Meanwhile, back at the truck, Ms. Burton decided to leave. At approximately 12:20 a.m., and in spite of her inexperience as a truck driver, she started the truck and got it moving toward the intersection of Hardin Road and Olden Lane.

In her progress toward the intersection, say police, she struck a large tree branch, damaging the trailer, and ran over a stop sign.

Ms. Burton, who police believe was sober, then attempted to turn right onto Olden Lane. She misjudged the angle, running the cab of the truck over several small trees on the side of the road before getting stuck in the mud.

A passing patrol from Princeton University's Department of Public Safety happened upon the carnage and alerted Township police.

Ms. Burton was subsequently arrested and charged with driving without a CDL. She was held for lack of $350 bail before being bailed out early this week.

Before anyone else could try to drive it, the truck was removed by George's Towing of Cranbury.

of Governors Lane, compared the workings of boards of education to wheel spinning that accomplishes nothing. Princeton, he said, struggles harder against this reality, "which is the reason that Princeton education is always in turmoil."

In the military until 10 years ago, Mr. Clearwater said that the military bureaucracy was much more flexible and easier to deal with than the bureaucracy of public education.

He was glad he had served on the School Board, he said, and that he had tried to make a contribution. But he was frustrated at having accomplished so little.

Ms. Wilczek said she wanted to continue working in her current areas of interest, including the attempt to bring the federal Head Start program to Princeton and serving on the District's Multicultural Committee. She is also the legislative liaison with State government in Trenton.

Steve Carson and the Rev. William Gipson are rumored to be interested in challenging Ms. Wilczek for the Borough seat. Mr. Carson acknowledged that he was considering the possibility. Mr. Gipson, who served on the School Board for a short time last year as an appointed

Princeton Township Committee May Eliminate Hazardous Route Busing for Older Children

Township Committee is considering eliminating some hazardous route busing for school children as one way of cutting costs in the 1995 municipal budget.

A discussion of proposals for eliminating hazardous route busing for high school students living at Princeton Community Village and at the Andrews-Foulet development off Cherry Hill Road, as well for private school students throughout the Township, will be discussed Monday, February 6. The cost savings for both proposals comes to $47,558, close to one half the cost of the Township's share of hazardous route busing for one year: $86,758.

In work session last Monday evening, Committee was presented a list of recommendations for reducing the number of hazardous routes. The recommendations were made by a subcommittee consisting of Mayor Michele Tuck, Police Chief Anthony Gaylord, Township Engineer Robert V. Kiser and Township Administrator James J. Pascale, who met with School Board officials and also visited every route.

The list included routes for elementary school students, but the subcommittee decided not to recommend eliminating hazardous routes busing for any elementary school children. It did suggest that "consideration should be given" to eliminating hazardous routes busing for Middle School students living at Princeton Community Village and the Andrews-Foulet development.

TOPICS Of the Town

New Traffic Light

Mr. Kiser pointed out that when hazardous route busing was approved for all PCV students a couple of years ago, the traffic light at Harrison Street and Terhune Road had not been installed. This light, and the one at Valley Road, both have pedestrian phases activated by push buttons that children can push to cross the street. There are sidewalks for the routes children would be taking from PCV to the High School, Middle School and Community Park School.

Mr. Kiser also pointed out that the sidewalk along Cherry Hill Road has now been completed to Route 206, and the traffic light at Route 206 and Terhune Road also has a pedestrian phase with push button control. A short piece of sidewalk connecting Route 206 at Mt. Lucas with Valley Road and Witherspoon Street has not been completed, but is expected to be installed this spring or summer, Mr. Kiser said.

Although Mayor Tuck was part of the subcommittee recommending consideration of eliminating hazardous route busing for Middle School children at PCV and Andrews-Foulet, she said Monday night that she was "not comfortable" in eliminating busing for middle school children. "An 11-year-old is still a child," she commented. Committeewoman Sharon Bilanin said she too wanted the Middle School option removed from the list.

Committeewoman Phyllis Marchand said she would prefer seeing how the discussion in regard to private school busing was decided before eliminating the middle school option. However, she was overruled. Committeeman Stephen Frakt said, "Clearly it is going to be a tough decision," but supported the idea of concentrating on high school and private school students as the place to start.

Borough Council has already eliminated funding for hazardous route busing to private school students who live closer to their schools than the minimum for which the state mandates busing.

An estimated 62 Township private school students at all grade levels would be affected if their routes are eliminated. Mr. Pascale said he would try to get a breakdown as to the grade levels in time for the February 6 meeting.

State Aid to School District Imperiled

Gov. Christie Whitman's proposed $4.7 billion education budget calls for $11 million in cuts in State aid to districts that spend more than 30 percent above the State average on administrative costs.

The average for these costs is $1,786 per pupil. Princeton Regional, with an administrative budget of $2,501 per pupil, is one of 280 New Jersey districts slated to be hit by the cuts.

Last year, Princeton Regional received $1.7 million in State aid.

On Monday, State Education Commissioner Leo Klagholtz said no district will lose more than 10 percent of its funding. Thus, in a worst-case scenario, Princeton would lose $170,000 in State aid.

Princeton is the only Mercer County district that would be subject to the penalty. Administrative costs per pupil in other Mercer County Districts include $1,846 for West Windsor-Plainsboro; $1,887 for Hopewell; and $1,894 for Lawrence.

State aid is targeted to specific programs, including transportation, special education, basic skills, and bilingual education.

School Board member Betsy Wilczek, the Board's legislative liaison, said that everyone was working very hard to figure out where the State had gotten the figure for Princeton's administrative costs. She pointed out that the District had recently eliminated one assistant principal position at the high school.

"We can't dispute the figure until we know where it came from," she said.

Assistant School Superintendent PISAURO said that any reduction in State or Federal funding will have an impact. "Unless we eliminate a program to make up the difference, the only other source is to go to the taxpayer," he said.

Dr. PISAURO said he was trying to bring in the budget as flat as possible. "In some cases we are able to do that; in some cases not."

The School Board at its meeting Tuesday night, January 24, was expected to approve a schedule of budget meetings. Assuming no changes will be made, the meetings are scheduled in the Valley Road conference room on February 6 at 7:30, February 22 at 7:30, and February 27 at 5:30.

The first meeting will focus on the elementary school budgets; the second on budgets for the middle school and high school; and the third on all other budget areas.

A public hearing and budget adoption will take place April 4, probably at John Witherspoon Middle School, and the budget referendum and School Board election is scheduled for April 18.

Resident Parking Permits

Also in work session, Committee received a report from Township Attorney Edwin Schmierer on how the residential parking permit program in the Leigh and Birch Avenue area was working. Mr. Schmierer wrote that he had met on several occasions with the Township staff responsible for implementing and overseeing the program to review it and talk about complaints and concerns of residents, businesses, the Princeton Nursery School, Elk's Lodge and Morning Star Church of God.

The staff also met with 24 individuals in late November. From these meetings he concludes that the ordinance "is working and should be continued." One area of concern to the residents is the number of parking stickers that have been issued. Residents apparently thought that each household would get one or at the most two stickers, but the Clerk has been issuing one for each member of a household who has a car.

Several residents have objected to her interpretation and implementation of the ordinance, saying that too many stickers have been issued. Mr. Schmierer told Committee on Monday that this is a policy matter which Committee will want to address. It was agreed to send copies of the report to individuals and businesses and discuss it at Committee's meeting on Monday, February 27. Approximately 280 stickers have been issued.

Among the recommendations that will be discussed are, extending the 11 p.m. parking cut-off to 2 a.m. as requested by Elk's Lodge; giving four additional decals to Princeton Nursery School for its teachers; and restricting the Community Park South parking lot to overflow parking from the residential parking district neighborhood.

Currently approximately 40 spaces of that lot are being used without charge by Medical Center employees. There is a suggestion in the report that Medical Center employees be relocated to the Community Park North lot, charged a fee for using that lot, and then be bused back at the Medical Center's expense to work.

"I.Q." Money

In other business in work session, Committee voted 4 to 1 to give the $5,000 the Township has received from Paramount Pictures from the filming of I.Q. to the Recreation Department, to be used for scholarships. Committeeman Carl Mayer voted "no," preferring that the amount be split and half be distributed to a non-governmental agency such as The Arts Council.

This position was supported by Ms. Tuck and Ms. Bilamin. They changed their minds and voted for giving the whole sum to the Recreation Department when Mr. Schmierer said he did not believe a municipality could legally give money to a private agency.

Houses of Worship

In still other business, Committee introduced an ordinance amendment that would permit houses of worship as conditional uses in any residential zone in the Township and sets forth bulk and lot standards. New places of worship would have to be located on an arterial or collector road, whereas existing places of worship that wished to expand but are not on arterial or collector roads would have to abide by the bulk and lot standards, or seek a variance.

The ordinance goes back to the Planning Board before it returns to Township Committee for public hearing and final adoption on February 27.

Committee gave unanimous endorsement to the Planning Board's petition to the State Planning Commission seeking designation of all of Princeton Borough and a portion of Princeton Township as a "Regional Center."

The designation is in keeping with the goals of the State Development and Redevelopment Plan adopted in 1992. It is also expected to improve the chances of receiving state funds for projects within the center.

Committee agreed to a request from Princeton Borough to delete a proposal of the Township's affordable housing program calling for the rehabilitation of 10 housing units in the Borough as a regional contribution. Although located in the Borough, the rehabilitation would count toward the Township affordable housing quota.

Mr. Schmierer told Committee that the Borough wishes to do its own rehabilitation and have it count toward its own affordable housing quota.

A proposal for inspection of rental units in the Township that are not owner occupied was also reviewed. The proposal calls for inspectors in the Health Department to make these inspections and sets forth a fee structure to cover the costs of a part-time housing inspector.

An ordinance amendment making it clear that inspections are not required for owner-occupied units, or units in houses in which the owner resides, will be discussed at the February 13 meeting.

Revising Tax Bill

Finally, Committeeman Carl Mayer's proposal for revisions to the Township tax bill was discussed. Mr.

Mayer would like to see the tax bill include information as to the tax the property owner paid in the last five years, the rate of inflation and a summary of the budget showing how monies are being spent in various categories. He also wanted comparisons with taxes in other municipalities included, but agreed with his colleagues that comparisons could be more confusing than illuminating, given the differences in the ways municipalities operate.

After some discussion, there was consensus that he should work with the chief financial officer and the finance committee and present an example of what he is proposing to Committee for approval. Mrs. Marchand expressed doubt as to the need or value of this extra work. Mr. Frakt said he would want to make sure it was "factually correct and contextually accurate." Ms. Tuck and Ms. Bilanin supported the notion.

Quaker Rd. Section Shut After Bridge Is Damaged

An unidentified motorist apparently struck and severely damaged the stone headwall of a Quaker Road bridge last week, leading police and County authorities to close it.

The bridge is located at the intersection of Quaker Road and Route 206, and, according to the Mercer County Engineering Department, should be unusable for at least two to three weeks.

The accident probably occurred at some time on Thursday, according to Sgt. Mark Emann of the Township Police.

Several large chunks of masonry from the damaged headwall now rest in the bed of a small stream that drains into Stony Brook, but more, although less apparent, damage was also done.

"When the headwall was knocked off," said County Engineer Dave Stem, "part of the roadway started collapsing."

Mr. Stem estimated that temporary repairs will take two or three weeks, but may leave more work to be done. He said that his department has not yet decided how to replace the ruined stone section.

"We want to make it compatible with future work that will be done on Route 206," he said. "At the same time, we want to make sure that whatever we do now won't preclude, or hurt our chances of, restoring it later."

Derelict Garage Began Life as Car Showroom

The derelict garage at 250 Nassau Street that will be torn down and replaced with a surface parking lot was once the home of Kurkjian & Co., a car dealership, auto repair shop and car storage area. More recently it housed a keyshop, television repair service and a doll shop.

The original owner was Krikor Kurkjian, a native of Armenia who came to this country in 1885 at age 16. He lived initially in New York City and in the Passaic-Paterson area but soon discovered the charms of Princeton and purchased a farm on Cherry Valley Road. His niece, Rose Johnson of Russell Road, says he delivered produce in Princeton and Rocky Hill by horse and buggy.

Mr. Kurkjian subsequently sold the farm and purchased part of an estate in the Mt. Lucas-Ewing Street area consisting of a main house (237 Mt. Lucas Road) and carriage house. He and his Swiss-born wife Lena added a swimming pool. They also rented out smaller houses on the property.

Mr. Kurkjian's first place of business on Nassau Street was the garage at No. 2 which he later sold to his manager, Frank South. Next he had a Ford dealership on lower Chambers Street, which he named Nassau Motors. Mrs. Johnson says she remembers the open-sided early Ford automobiles there. He sold the dealership to George Conover Sr. (who later moved Nassau Motors to Route 206) and purchased the property at 248-250 Nassau Street, possibly with the help of some professors at Princeton University.

There Mr. Kurkjian began with an automobile showroom. He was the agent for Oakland, Willys, and Whippet cars. Later there was a Pontiac agency in the building. Mrs. Johnson remembers the huge showroom with space for four new cars, a lovely office and a nice waiting room with leather-upholstered chairs and a sofa on which she used to curl up and take a nap.

Mr. Kurkjian asked his older brother Andrew, Mrs. Johnson's father, to operate a battery dealership next door, where the Ivy Inn is located today. Although never in partnership together, the two brothers worked together and were always close, Mrs. Johnson says.

The service and automotive repair area was on the second floor, Mrs. Johnson says, with a rather steep ramp leading up to it, and there was an apartment in the building. Mr. Kurkjian rented space on the ground floor to Princeton University students and others as a place to keep their cars. She remembers the students coming in their raccoon coats to retrieve their cars.

Mrs. Johnson believes her uncle built the building, because she remembers a bulldozer on the property and that several houses were removed.

Andrew Kurkjian retired in 1933 and the battery shop became a gas station. Mrs. Johnson remembers it being a Shell and Standard Oil station; others suggest it may have been a Tydol station. In any event, it was substantially altered when it became the bar it is today.

Krikor Kurkjian retired in 1943 and moved with his wife to Fresno, Calif., at the urging of two nieces. He died in 1965 at age 96. Mrs. Johnson describes him as a wonderful person, proud of being an American citizen, and one who took an active interest in current events — to the point of writing members of Congress and the Secretary of War to state his views on America's role in foreign affairs.

The immediate ownership of the garage after he retired is unclear. Wanda Gunning of the Historical Society of Princeton suggests that Harry Johnson and Baldino Ferrara ran the repair shop and a wrecker service in the building.

Jim Firestone, who purchased it in 1982, says it was owned by Bill Hurley, the painting contractor, who bought it as an investment and place to store his painting equipment. At one point it was proposed to be used to store buses, and it may also have housed the automotive division of Nelson Glass.

Perpetua's Keyshop and Nassau TV repair were both tenants on the ground floor at the time Mr. Firestone acquired it. Jack Morrison of Nassau Seafood became the owner in late 1993, intending to turn it into a parking lot.

Parking Lot Is Approved For East Nassau Street

The Planning Board has approved a plan to tear down a derelict garage and commercial building at 250 Nassau Street behind the Ivy Inn and replace it with a parking lot accommodating 18 cars.

The former garage was purchased a year ago by Jack Morrison, owner of Nassau Street Seafood, with the idea of providing parking for customers. Mr. Morrison told the Planning Board Thursday night that the lot would initially be reserved for employees and customers of his store at 256 Nassau Street but that he would consider offering long-term parking to his tenants at 254 and 256 Nassau Street once he knows how much parking will be needed by customers.

Take a Ticket

Access to the lot will be provided via a 14-foot wide access easement between the Ivy Inn and the building at 252 Nassau Street. Customers planning on entering the garage will see a red and green traffic signal and a sign indicating whether the lot is full. If the light is green and the full sign is not lit up, the customer can proceed and get a ticket from an automated ticket booth. There will also be a barrier gate with an arm that will rise when the ticket is taken.

Shoppers will present their ticket to a Nassau Seafood employee when making a purchase and receive a token which will allow them to exit the garage. Monthly patrons will follow a similar procedure, except they will have an access card which will allow them to enter and exit the garage without using the ticket and token system.

There is also parking for tenants under the building at 252 Nassau Street accessible by a ramp that is located between the two buildings. The ramp will be removed and regrading of an area near the easement will allow access to this parking area, which will be also be served by the ticket booth system.

The 18-space surface lot will have a three-foot chain link fence along the south and west property lines and a six-foot high wood stockade fence along the north side next to residences. Evergreen Arborvitae plantings are proposed in a four-foot strip around the perimeter, and there will also be a grassy area with trees in place of the ramp.

READY FOR THE WRECKER: The garage and commercial building at 250 Nassau Street will be torn down to make way for a surface parking lot for 18 cars for tenants and Nassau Seafood shoppers. Described as an eyesore by Planning Director Lee Solow, it once held a car dealership and automotive repair shop owned by Krikor Kurkjian, a Nassau Street entrepreneur of an earlier era.

The parking lot will have two lights on 14-foot high poles and one light mounted on the building at 252 Nassau Street. The pole lights will be on timers timed to turn them off at 1 a.m.

Planning Board members were divided as to whether left turns onto Nassau Street should be prohibited, as the Borough Engineer and Development Officer recommended. After some discussion and a vote, it was decided to prohibit left-hand turns from 4 to 6:30 p.m. on a temporary basis.

Asset to Neighborhood

Only one neighbor, Robert Hendry of 5 Chestnut Street, spoke during the public hearing. Mr. Hendry commended Mr. Morrison for the plan, saying that the garage had become rat infested and was an eyesore (it had been declared unsafe by the Borough construction official). He said he thought the lot would be "a real asset to the neighborhood," but he expressed concern about unsightly garbage visible from his back yard. He asked that the shrubbery be six feet high all around the lot.

There were comments early in the evening that the improvements that Mr. Morrison is proposing may inspire other property owners in the area to clean up parking and dumpster areas.

The vote to approve was unanimous.

TRENTON ROUNDUP

Pollution Law Revision

The State Assembly has voted to revise the state's Pollution Prevention Act. The Act, adopted in 1991, applies to about 800 manufacturers. It requires a detailed analysis of production processes and the development of a plan with voluntary goals for reducing the use of toxic materials.

If they become law, the amendments will reduce the amount of reporting requirements and allow the recycling of toxics to count toward pollution prevention goals.

"The chemical industry bought this vote and public health will pay the price," said Curtis Fisher, environmental attorney for the New Jersey Public Interest Research Group.

Patrizia Zita, director of government affairs for the Chemical Industry Council of New Jersey, said the vote endorsed the industry's view that toxic substances are raw materials to be handled carefully, not a menace to be outlawed.

Helping the Elderly

Final legislative approval has been given by the State Assembly to a measure that would prevent senior citizens from losing eligibility for a low-cost prescription drug program because of an increase in their Social Security income.

Recipients of the Pharmaceutical Assistance to the Aged and Disabled Program (PAAD) pay only $5 for each prescription. The $169 million program is funded with casino revenues.

Current income limits are $16,172 for single persons and $19,828 for couples. The bill would increase the limits to $16,624 and $20,383, respectively, and would require an automatic increase in PAAD eligibility levels every year to keep pace with Social Security increases.

The bill has been sent to Gov. Christie Whitman for consideration.

Colt 45 malt liquor bottle through its rear window. No damage estimate was available.

Robert C. Johnson, 35, of Toms River, was arrested by Township Police after being stopped twice in one day for driving with a suspended license.

Mr. Johnson was stopped by Officer Scott Porreca at 12:55 p.m. a week ago Tuesday, and was issued a summons for driving with a suspended license. He was released on the condition that he not drive the vehicle until his license was reinstated.

A short while later, Sgt. John Clausen spotted Mr. Johnson driving again, on Route 206. Sgt. Clausen placed him under arrest on motor vehicle charges.

During a custodial search, a small amount of marijuana was found on Mr. Johnson's person, leading police to charge him with possession of marijuana as well.

He was remanded to the Mercer County Detention Center in lieu of $1,000 bail.

Car Window Shattered By Vindictive Motorist

A 21-year-old Jackson man was slightly injured on Saturday by a second man, who punched out the window of his car.

Borough Police believe the incident began on Route 1, where the victim's car pulled in front of his attacker's. According to reports, the suspect followed the victim's car down Washington Road until they both came to the stoplight at Prospect Avenue.

At that point, about 11:20 a.m. by police estimates, the suspect got out of his car and began to verbally attack the victim. The victim refused to respond, said police, and the suspect then struck the window with his fist, shattering it.

The attacker then got back into his car and drove off down Prospect Avenue. He is described as a white male in his mid-30's. He has brown hair, is between 5'6 and 5'8, weighs approximately 170 pounds, and probably has a very sore fist. He was driving a black Ford Thunderbird of mid-1980's vintage.

The victim received minor scratches in the attack and refused treatment.

A burglary and theft was reported at a Markham Road townhouse this week. According to police, the perpetrator entered the townhouse, which was unoccupied due to fire damage sustained last year, and removed $10,000 worth of property.

Police Officer Assaulted While Serving Warrant

A Princeton Township police officer was assaulted by a woman whom he was attempting to arrest last Friday. Officer Scott Porreca went to the home of Denise Isley, at 34 Redding Circle, at 10:45 a.m. to serve an arrest warrant for a different assault complaint.

According to police reports, 35-year-old Ms. Isley attacked the officer, who was pushed and scratched in the incident.

Officer Porreca placed Ms.

Isley under arrest. During a search at the police station, drug paraphernalia in the form of two metal pipes was found on her person.

She was charged with assaulting a police officer, resisting arrest, and possession of drug paraphernalia.

Ms. Isley was released on bail pending a court appearance.

NPDC in Montgomery To be Closed by State

State officials have announced plans to close the 97-year-old North Princeton Developmental Center in Montgomery Township and move most of its 531 mentally retarded residents into community-based programs.

This will take about 2½ years, and could mean the eventual loss of about 1,000 jobs.

Immediate concern was voiced by family members, who said the transfer will be an emotionally traumatic experience for patients. Many are elderly, and have spent most of their lives in the institution.

Community placement will be funded by redirecting the State funds provided to operate the center, said State Department of Human Services Commissioner William Waldman. This totaled $39 million this year.

The money, said Commissioner Waldman, will be used to contract agencies to run "individually tailored" programs for each client.

The closing of the center is not expected to begin until the completion in March of a series of scheduled public hearings. After a final decision is made, officials said it will take about 32 months to complete the closing.

The State has indicated it is intent on beginning what is expected to be a lengthy and controversial process of shutting down some or all of the eight centers in the State.

Free Income Tax Help Available

For the twelfth straight year, Rider University accounting students have volunteered their services through the IRS' Volunteer Income Tax Assistance (VITA) Program to offer free income tax assistance to individuals who cannot afford professional tax help.

This year about 30 Rider students, in teams of five, will be at Quaker Bridge Mall and the Rider Student Center at scheduled times between Tuesday, February 7 and Sunday, March 5. The service is geared primarily to seniors and those with low incomes.

The students will be at Quaker Bridge Mall near the Lord & Taylor Court every Wednesday and Thursday from 1 to 4; each Saturday from 10 to 4; and each Sunday from noon to 3. They will be in the main lobby of the Student Center every Tuesday from 11:30 to 2:30.

Individuals seeking assistance should bring pertinent tax documents such as W-2 forms, interest statements, copies of their 1993 tax returns, and the tax package received in the mail. Those needing more information can call the public relations office at 896-5192.

To be eligible for the program, students must have successfully completed a taxation course at Rider and had two IRS training sessions prior to the start of the VITA program.

Each year the students help approximately 600 people. Larry Prober, associate professor of accounting, is coordinator of Rider's VITA program.

In question is the moving of more than 4,600 residents from the institutions into community-based programs.

Advocates for closing them say the aging institutions are out of date and expensive to operate. But the 1992 closing of the Johnstone Training and Research Center in Bordentown Township brought angry protests from family members and union officials. The latter said the State had closed the institution solely as a way to find savings to close a deficit in the State budget.

NPDC is one of the oldest facilities in the State, and it is in need of asbestos removal. Also, about 400 of its residents are reportedly considered good candidates for community placement because they participate in vocational programs.

Hike in Princeton Tuition Approved by Trustees

The trustees of Princeton University voted Saturday to accept recommendations for next year's operating budget which include a 4.9 percent increase in the cost of a Princeton education, from $25,810 in 1994-95 to $27,076 in 1995-96. Tuition will rise 5.3 percent from $19,900 to $20,960, and room and board 3.5 percent from $5,910 to $6,116.

The operating budget for 1995-96 is $541.5 million, including $94 million for the Princeton Plasma Physics Laboratory provided by the U.S. Department of Energy.

The budget for next year represents a continued effort to slow the rate of increase in tuition and fees. The Priorities Committee report to President Harold Shapiro notes, "This is the fourth consecutive year that the rate of increase has been reduced, and the resulting percentage of 4.9 for FY96 is effectively the lowest tuition and fee increase in more than 20 years."

Tuition for graduate students will increase 5.3 percent from $19,900 in 1994-95 to $20,960 in 1995-96. Housing costs for graduate students will rise on average 3.5 percent, as will board costs at the Graduate College.

Rents for faculty and staff housing in 1995-96 will go up an average 2.1 percent. (This year's rents represent an average increase over the previous year of 3.5 percent.)

Summer Scholars

One new initiative that received funding of $100,000 is a Summer Scholars Institute, which is, according to the report, "designed to encourage undergraduate students to remain in engineering and the sciences." The program will accommodate approximately 35 to 40 high school students who, despite excellent qualifications for admission, did not have access to advanced placement-level courses in math and science in their secondary schools. These Summer Scholars will take courses for credit in mathematics and writing and participate in intensive mathematically-based workshops at Princeton during the summer preceding their freshman year.

Among increases in existing budgets is aid to both undergraduate and graduate students.

The undergraduate student scholarship budget will increase an additional $1.4 million. That increase enables the University to continue its policy of admitting students without regard to their families' financial circumstances by awarding aid (including scholarships, loans, and jobs) to meet the full extent of each student's demonstrated need.

Similarly for graduate students, the fellowship budget will rise by an amount sufficient to cover the tuition increase. Stipends which accompany the fellowships will go up 3.5 percent.

Faculty Mathematician In Lecture at Institute

Prof. Robert D. MacPherson of the Institute for Advanced Study's School of Mathematics will present a lecture entitled "Geometry in a Space of Configurations: Robot Arms, Roman Arches, and Suspension Bridges." The lecture, part of the Institute's 1994-95 Faculty Lecture Series, is intended for a general audience and is open to the public. It will take place this Wednesday, January 25, at 4:30 in Wolfensohn Hall. A reception will follow in the Common Room of Fuld Hall.

Prof. MacPherson joined the faculty of the Institute's School of Mathematics this year. He came to the Institute from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology where he had been professor since 1987. He is a member of the National Academy of Sciences and received the Academy's Mathematics Award in 1992.

Prof. MacPherson's research centers on geometry in its various forms, including topology and algebraic geometry. In his lecture he will consider the space of possible configurations of a robot arm and the effect of gravity on the robot arm given a Morse function in this space. (Morse functions are named for Marston Morse, a professor at the Institute from 1935 to 1977.)

Princeton Family Center Annual Conference

"Mind/Body and Family Emotional Systems"

A day-long conference will feature presentations by and dialogue between two researchers who have investigated the connections between physical and emotional well-being. Dr. Candace Pert, an Adjunct Professor in the Department of Physiology and Biophysics at Georgetown University, is a well-known pharmacologist whose work was one of the special features on Bill Moyer's television series, "Healing and the Mind." Dr. Michael E. Kerr, Director of the Georgetown Family Center, is a psychiatrist whose research supports the widely held view that good emotional relations with other family members can foster health whereas anxiety-laden relationships can be one of the contributing factors in illness.

Open House Sunday At Montessori School

An open house for parents will be held at the Princeton Montessori School, 487 Cherry Valley Road, on Sunday at 1. Parents will tour the school and meet the director and faculty. The school, established in 1968, offers programs for children from birth through eighth grade. Applications for summer and fall 1995 enrollment are now being accepted in all programs.

Montessori teachers provide experiences for children that encourage concentration, independence, coordination, and love of learning. Students flourish in the well-equipped classrooms designed specifically for their developmental needs. The school promotes the development of responsible, independent-thinking students.

Information about the Nancy McCormick Rambusch Merit Scholarship will be available at the open house. Scholarships for one-half the tuition for four years will be awarded to five new students applying for fourth through seventh grades. Selection of scholarship recipients is based on a combination of the candidate's academic and social performance, as well as the parents' interest in providing a Montessori education for their child. Financial need will be based on the School and Student Service for Financial Aid Report.

For further information, call the admissions office at 924-4594.

Is Nothing Sacred?

At the Whole Earth Center, we believe that Mother Nature designed a pretty amazing animal when she created the cow. Grass goes in, milk comes out. Simple, elegant, efficient.

It seems, however, the FDA does not agree. For the past year, they have allowed dairy farmers to inject cows with recombinant Bovine Growth Hormone (rBGH) to increase their milk production. The benefit for small farmers? A possible drop in prices that could drive small dairies out of business. And for the cow? An increased risk of mastitis (an infectious disease of the udder) requiring treatment with antibiotics.

Sound appealing? If not, the Whole Earth Center has a few simple alternatives. First, we carry a complete line of organic dairy products including milk, cheese, butter, and yogurt. Buying certified organic dairy products is the one way to be totally certain that you are not supporting the use of rBGH. From our non-organic dairies, we are requiring a signed affidavit that they will not use or, to the best of their ability, accept any milk that has been produced with rBGH. If we don't get that assurance, we'll pull their products off the shelf. It's that simple.

The FDA believes that recombinant Bovine Growth Hormone is perfectly safe so they don't require products enhanced with the hormone to be labeled. We, along with many consumer groups, scientists, and dairy farmers, think that consumers have the right to know what they are buying. If you want more information about rBGH or the benefits of organic products, we invite you to stop by the Whole Earth Center.

Missing Person

a missing Alzheimer's patient on Thursday evening were called on again.

Search teams with specially trained dogs came from the South Brunswick Police Department, the Palisades Search and Rescue Dog Association, and West Jersey Search and Rescue.

In addition to eight Township police officers, numerous volunteers also arrived from the Princeton Volunteer Fire Department, the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad, the Princeton First Aid Ladies' Auxiliary, the Hopewell Borough Fire Company, and the Kingston, Princeton Junction, and Lawrence Township fire departments.

The search was conducted from a command post at Johnson Park School, and nearly 100 volunteers were split into groups to comb the area near Stony Brook, Edgerstoune Road, Winant Road, Hun Road, and Brearley Road.

The teams searched for Mr. Dey without success from 6 p.m. until midnight, and agreed to resume searching at 10 a.m. on Saturday morning.

Forty Searchers

On Saturday, approximately 40 searchers, including three search dog teams from West Jersey Search and Rescue, were dispatched from a staging area at Princeton Battlefield Park. The search was concentrated along Stony Brook.

At 11:12 a.m., Mr. Dey's body was discovered in the brook between Route 206 and Mercer Road. The successful search team was made up of volunteer firemen from Princeton, members of the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad, Debbie Schatt of West Jersey Search and Rescue, and her search dog, Judah.

The body was then removed from Stony Brook and transported to the County Medical Examiner's facility.

Although Mr. Dey's death was caused by drowning, a representative of the Medical Examiner's office said Tuesday that toxicology tests would be conducted to check the level of carbon monoxide in his blood.

Moved Here In 1983

Born in South Orange, Mr. Dey was 67 years when he died. He moved to Princeton with his family in 1983 from Rumson.

After working for many years in New York City as an advertising executive, he began his own business, Toms River Car Wash, which he expanded into four sites.

A graduate of Milgrim High School and Dartmouth College, Mr. Dey was an accomplished athlete. He played football, basketball, and tennis in college, but although he was drafted by the Baltimore Colts and the Boston Red Sox, he opted not to turn professional.

Mr. Dey is survived by his wife, Roswitha Berger Dey; his mother, Eleanor Dey of Hightstown; five children, Carroll Dey of Washington D.C., Kimberly Dey of Atlantic Highlands, William P. Dey of Locust, Merrall Dey-Freund of Long Branch, and Hendrik W. Dey of Princeton; two sisters, Barbara Pope of Columbia, S.C., and Judith Dey of Springfield; a brother, Charles F. Dey of Lyme Conn.; and two stepsons, Emlyn C. Jeffrey, of San Antonio, Texas, and Christopher E. Jeffrey, of Burlington, Vt.

Memorial services will be held at 1 p.m. on Thursday, at the First Presbyterian Church of Cranbury, the Rev. Dr. W. Alfred Tisdale officiating.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad, 237 N. Harrison Street, Princeton 08540.

Search Team Rescues Missing Township Man

An 80-year-old Township man who suffers from Alzheimer's disease wandered away from his Fairway Drive residence on Thursday night, and became the object of an 80-person search and rescue mission overseen by Township police and an outside search and rescue organization.

A nine-person search party, made up of members of the three Princeton fire companies and the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad, found the missing man, Arthur Collins, in the northwest corner of the Ettl Farm property at 10:20 p.m. He was face-down in mud, but still conscious.

He was transported to the Medical Center at Princeton by the Princeton First Aid Squad, and was treated for hypothermia. He was released from the hospital over the weekend and is recovering at home.

Mr. Collins' wife reported him as missing at approximately 5 p.m., said Lieutenant Mario Musso of the Township Police Department. She had noticed his absence at 4:15 p.m., but searched the area around their home by herself before telephoning the police.

According to Lieutenant Musso, officers conducted a thorough search of the Collins' home and property, but were unable to locate the missing man.

Mr. Collins walks two-to-three miles every day with a companion, and is in good physical condition, said Lieutenant Musso.

An Exhaustive Search

When it became apparent that a more exhaustive search would be necessary, police contacted the Palisades Search and Rescue Dog Association, a group based in Millburn, N.J. that specializes in such operations.

Tom Pampalone, of Palisades Search and Rescue, organized and deployed the searchers. "We set up a command post at the Johnson Park School," said Mr. Pampalone, "and then I helped in the planning of the operation."

"We sent air-scenting canines into the high-probability areas around his house," he said. Air-scenting dogs, which are distinct from bloodhounds, search an area for the scent of any human, not just a specific person.

The search was concentrated, at first, in the area between Fairway Drive and the Johnson Park School. Police conducted a door-to-door search of the neighborhood, looking for anyone who might have seen Mr. Collins, and also checked the wooded area along Rosedale Road.

Once it was determined that Mr. Collins was not nearby, said Mr. Pampalone, the search was expanded. The Township Police provided maps for the searchers, and the part of the Township around the house was divided into sections. Mr. Pampalone assigned the rescue teams to search different areas, and began deploying them at approximately 8:30 p.m.

Borough Council member Mark Freda was part of the search team that discovered Mr. Collins at approximately 10:20. He reports that the team was spread out in a line and was moving across the Ettl Farm property when they found the missing man.

"I happened to see something move, and it was his hand," said Mr. Freda. "He was about 30 feet away from me. He was covered with mud, and it appeared that he had tried to get up more than once. We got the team together and got him out."

The team then radioed for assistance, said Mr. Freda, and Township patrol cars and an ambulance arrived on the scene "almost immediately," and transported Mr. Collins to the hospital.

Personnel from numerous local agencies participated in the operation: there were 30 volunteers from the Princeton Fire Department, and 15 from the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad; 16 Township police officers were involved, as was a K-9 unit from the South Brunswick Police Department.

The Lawrence Fire Department provided 10 searchers, and five came from the Kingston Fire Department.

In addition to the search dog teams provided by the Palisades group, a bloodhound and its handler came from the West Jersey Search and Rescue Association.

The Princeton First Aid Squad Ladies' Auxiliary provided support for the searchers.

Common Occurrence

According to Mr. Pampalone, the six-member Palisades Search and Rescue Dog Association is called out two or three times per month, often to search for lost Alzheimer's patients.

"Approximately 60 percent of our call-outs are for water drownings," he estimated, "the balance is made up of Alzheimer's patients and lost children."

Mr. Pampalone's organization uses several different breeds of dog for their work. On Thursday, Palisades brought three dogs: a Border Collie, a French Beauceron, and a Rottweiler.

"The dogs are certified in several areas," said Mr. Pampalone, "including wilderness search, water search, and disaster rescue."

We're Fortunate to Have HiTops and Familyborn

To the Editor, Town Topics: Recently I attended a panel discussion at HiTops. For those in the area who have not been formally introduced, HiTops is an organization serving adolescents and families in this community. Through cooperative learning education programs the staff, along with their teen council, educate and support teens and adults alike in sexual health and mental well-being.

Familyborn, a center for birth and women's health and parent-organization to HiTops, introduced me for the first time in my adult life to truly responsible health care. My three boys, having come into this world under the professional, loving supervision of midwives at Familyborn, now have HiTops to help guide and direct them as they begin their journey into adolescence. It

Successes Are Spotlights At School Board Meetings

To the Editor, Town Topics: The reports in all three local newspapers on the meeting of the Princeton Regional Schools Board of Education held on January 10, accurately portrayed the portion of that meeting in which the teachers expressed their frustrations over the ways in which some decisions had been made and implemented in recent months.

Unfortunately, another significant portion of that meeting was overshadowed in those reports by the controversy. Much of the first hour and a half of the meeting was devoted to celebration of just some of the many specific successes of our schools — particularly Littlebrook School where the meeting was hosted.

We in the audience were treated to a short choral concert which has been great comfort to me knowing this extra support is there for them should they need it.

Because of the wonderful collaborative efforts between HiTops and Princeton University students participating in this panel discussion, I brought home with me knowledge and understanding of how I can be more supportive in my role as parent. I am a big believer in active participation in one's own health care. This is the foundation on which Familyborn and HiTops have built their organizations and their very existence and accessibility are our good fortune.

I wish to express my deep and most certainly undying gratitude to all those who over the years have been

Borough Said "No" A Scant 27 Months Ago

To the Editor, Town Topics: Can you believe it? The consolidationists are at it again? A scant 27 months ago, Princeton Borough sent a clear message via the voting booth. A majority of Borough voters (59.5% to 40.5%) said that consolidation was not for us, ergo no "study" of it was "needed." Period.

On the national scene, "centralized government" is even less appealing than it was in 1991. Both Republicans and Democrats view it as too inefficient and too expensive. Washington, at least, is convinced that smaller government is better. Yet our local Consolidationists keep trying to push us in the opposite direction, looking — they say — for "efficiencies."

The preservation of our historic Borough offered a clear-cut mandate.

The next time — if there is a next time — the Borough may get 69% or 79%. Will that end it? Meantime, can't we sue somebody for harassment? (Everybody else is doing it. It's a national trend, you might say.)

cert by Littlebrook fifth graders, descriptions of the blending of science and social studies in the curriculum unit on Native Americans in fourth grade, presentations on past and present arts residencies at Littlebrook, poems written and read by three students, and a description of the exciting Environmentors program that is being introduced at the high school.

These successes are the result of hard and cooperative work within our schools by the students, teachers, principals, supervisors and administration.

Each school in the district is hosting a Board meeting this school year and such presentations by staff and students are being made at the opening of each meeting.

In addition to Littlebrook, so far this school year Community Park School focused on writing throughout the curriculum and Princeton High School highlighted its range of cocurricular activities.

I certainly recommend to anyone interested in seeing what is going on at our schools to attend any of the future School Board meetings that are held in the schools and stay at least for the opening presentation. I expect that you will be impressed by the accomplishments of our staff and students.

Extending Meter Time Hurts Poorer Residents

To the Editor, Town Topics:

I have this day written letters to all our municipal representatives and the Borough Engineer, to vehemently protest the callous and ill-considered plan to increase the meter time until 8 p.m.

This action will injure a considerable number of people, such as the merchants who do a lively business on Thursday evenings, due, no doubt, to no parking fees at that time, and the restaurant owners and their employees, whose happy hour and leisurely diners will not want to

Police Officer Salutes Search Party Volunteers

To the Editor, Town Topics:

I would personally like to say thank you to all the local volunteers who aided in locating two people who were reported missing Thursday and Friday in Princeton.

A request for assistance in the search was made to the Princeton Fire Department and Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad and the response was overwhelming. With their help, both people were located.

The Ladies Auxiliary of the First Aid Squad came to the staging areas to supply food and drink to tired, wet and cold volunteers who had given up their personal time on Thursday evening, Friday evening and Saturday morning.

There are no practice drills we perform where groups of volunteers interact with each other for these types of situations, but nevertheless we all worked together as one large unit.

I have been a police officer in Princeton Township for 28 years and cannot remember having two such incidents back-to-back which required such giving as I witnessed this past week. Princeton residents certainly should be grateful that we have such wonderful volunteers.

To all the volunteers, I salute you.

leave their cozy places to go out and drive around to find another parking space after two hours, since meter feeding is also a ticket offense.

In addition, there are a great number of midtown residents like me who will have to pay an additional $2 per day, or $52 per month, to park in the only place we will be able to — the Library parking lot. My present monthly cost to park is approximately $38, to park from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Friday and all day Saturday. The additional $52 will raise this cost to $90 per month.

Most midtown residents are not our wealthiest citizens, some of whom work as cleaning people and at low-wage businesses like Burger King. The irony of this is that these people will be asked to bear a higher cost of supporting our Borough government than those who are fortunate to have free parking.

If we are priced out of our apartments, the landlords will also be affected, since it will become more difficult to rent them, except mainly to students, who are essentially transients, rather than to those of us who have been there for ten years and hoped never to move.

I urge all Borough citizens who use the municipal parking lots in the evening, or who agree that this is a bad idea, to write or call Mayor Marvin Reed and the Borough Council members. They are: Mark Freda, Arthur Saylor, Mildred Trotman, Roger Martindell, David Goldfarb, Sandra Starr.

Littlebrook's Principal A Model of Effectiveness

To the Editor, Town Topics:

While reading last week's excellent letter by Regina Simpson [TOWN TOPICS, January 18], I thought certainly that she was describing the principal of my daughter's school, Dr. Ginsberg of Littlebrook.

I was delighted, of course, to hear comments made about Mr. Bill Cirullo, and felt I should immediately write a letter of my own.

Dr. Ginsberg is the model of an effective principal. He's involved in all of the activities at Littlebrook School. I've seen him speak to so many of his students on a personal first-name basis that it seems as if he must know them all.

He works non-stop at creating a positive school environment, and he too, always seems to be there for a casual chat or for important matters about my child.

This leadership has created a sense of community among all of us who consider ourselves part of the Littlebrook family — students, teachers, staff members, parents and other family members. Remember that saying, "It takes a community to raise a child."

We moved to Princeton because of that "community" feeling and because of the excellent reputation of the schools. This reputation was built by administration and excellent teachers, like those who have taught my daughter.

Through the years I have seen how very well organized these teachers are. Contrary to Dr. Nappi's comments about teachers not doing lesson plans, these teachers appear to me to be incredibly well-planned. I see this in my daughter's homework, in our daily discussions about school, and most importantly in her social and academic growth. Based on the outcome of their lessons, I am mightily pleased.

Princeton's excellent school reputation stretches far and wide. This education was built by administrators and teachers long before this current board came on the scene. Let us all be as accountable to the community as these educators are.

Board and Superintendent Need Chance to Do Job

To the Editor, Town Topics:

I am a parent with two children in the fifth and seventh grades in the Princeton Public School System. I have been reading about the current public confrontation between the teachers and the board members and wondering: "How does any of this relate to the education of our children?"

I am personally very happy with what the board members are doing. I already see positive signs of their efforts in my children's education. I suspect that this view is shared by a large silent majority of Princeton parents.

In my opinion, the fact that the new Superintendent is working closely with the School Board and seems to have the support of board members is a new and positive development. I urge everyone in the system to take advantage of this novel situation — with a focus on finding ways to improve our children's education.

It is important to note that the board members are elected representatives of the parents in Princeton. They were elected to do a specific job — improve the school system. They are trying to do just that. If the parents feel that they did not do an adequate job, they will vote them out next time around (assuming that these people have the stamina to run again).

In the meantime, it is important to give the Board and the new Superintendent a chance to do the job they were brought in to do.

I hope that everyone can find a way to go beyond petty wrangling about who said what to whom and what it could be interpreted to mean and focus on the only question that is relevant: "What changes are necessary to improve the education of our children?"

'PR' Not Derogatory Term To School Board Member

To the Editor, Town Topics: My comments on the administrators reported in the press were made in response to a precise question by a [Princeton Packet] reporter:

Not One Farthing of Princeton Tax Monies Will Be Used for Proposed Einstein Statue

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Her question caught me in mid-motion. "Mel," she asked, "How is Einstein doing?" My fork, poised to deliver the tender, baked salmon hesitated imperceptibly. But a second mouthful was out of the question. A chorus of voices around the elegant dinner table at a former Township neighbor's home pressed the question. "Yes, Mel. How is Einstein doing?"

Before I could answer, a comment and question drew me up sharply. The salmon would have to wait. "I'm sure," he assured us, "that many people are in favor of a statue, but are concerned about the cost to the community — especially as a number of streets have yet to be paved, and the cost of a library is so high. How are we going to pay for a statue?"

I was aghast. Appalled was more like it. How could this be? Was it widely understood — believed — that the proposed statue was to be paid for with public funds — hard-to-come-by tax dollars? Was this the unspoken, underlying dilemma? How else, it was suggested, could the curious vote of the Borough Council be explained?

It was time to clear the air. The fact is, I protested, jabbing the air with my now naked fork, that at no time was there a thought, a hint, that either of the Princetons would contribute a farthing of tax monies for this project. All required funds would be raised by private solicitation and/or donations.

The Borough was to contribute only a small parcel of land — a parcel currently owned by the Collins Corporation. A swap would occur. Land for Taxes. Collins, not wanting to pay tax, would donate a portion of the green-sward in front of the post office; in turn, the Borough would forgive the tax — a miniscule portion of its budget. Not a penny of Borough money would go for casting or erecting a statue. The Borough could only benefit from having a statue of Albert Einstein.

Silence around the table. "You've got a communications disaster," was the remark that broke it. "What you've just said was not known nor made clear to the people. You've got a public relations problem." And so it went. Until "Kay," the woman on my right who raised the question initially, suggested that a letter to the newspaper was needed.

"Right," I said. "I'll do it."

MELVIN A. BENARDE

Thorngate Court

"Why do you think that Administrators say that they are not treated as human beings?"

I said that Princeton principals traditionally put a lot of time and energy in public relations, namely in dealing with parents, students, teachers and staff, which is an extremely important job (exactly as Ms. Simpson eloquently explains in her letter to TOWN TOPICS).

I added that on top of that they are now asked for more: supervision and evaluation of tenured as well as untenured staff members according to a more stringent timetable, periodic supervision of lesson plans, detailed front-end input on the budget, etc. I am not surprised, I said, they might feel at times overworked and exploited.

"Dealing with people" is exactly what "public relations" means in Italian, and in this specific instance I made very explicit what I was talking about, although it obviously did not come through in the abridged quote reported in the press.

It never occurred to me that "public relations" might be given the derogatory meaning of PR, which it apparently often has in the U.S.

The above is a typical example of the kind of misunderstandings, misquotes, misinterpretations, and omissions that routinely happen when personnel matters are discussed in public and people communicate to each other in the columns of a newspaper.

Some are caught saying things that they really do not mean to say; others are quoted out of context and others yet interpret their statements the way they want. So the circus goes on, taking attention away from the real issues we all should

PSE&G Should Move Substation & Power Lines

To the Editor, Town Topics:
The EMF report prepared by Dr. Robert Dresnack for the Princeton Public Library (and reported by Barbara Johnson, "Highest EMF Levels Are Found Outside Library, Study Reports") doesn't say anything more than what the Princeton Citizens Coalition on EMF has already said about elevated EMF levels in and around the library, and we didn't charge the Borough $5,500.

We waited months for a report that skims the surface of the issue. A more comprehensive investigation not just of EMF levels in the library and its immediate vicinity, but in other areas adjacent to the substation and high current and high voltage wires, as well as a more thorough discussion of possible remedial options, would have been a better use of taxpayers' money.

Nevertheless, the Dresnack study does corroborate readings taken by the Coalition showing EMF levels in the 1.5 to 6 milligauss range — levels which have been linked to an increased incidence of cancer in numer-

Those High EMFs Found Near Library Are Good News to Town's Taxpayers

To the Editor of Town Topics:

They say "it's an ill wind that blows no good," and your report of high EMF levels around the Public Library [TOWN TOPICS, January 18] is surely good news for Princeton taxpayers.

Judging from the letters you have printed on this subject, there seems to be a widespread feeling among all segments of the population, ranging all the way from professors of physics at Princeton University to those who get their science from The New Yorker magazine, that EMFs are every bit as dangerous as nuclear power, fluoridated water, and the Abominable Snowman.

The message is a grim one: the people who use the library are going to die. More than that, if we are to give credence to the studies from Sweden, the people who use the library the most are going to die soonest.

That will inevitably have an effect on the number of people using the library facilities. Add to that the effect of people who practice "prudent avoidance" and we may find that the library, so far from needing to be expanded, is actually larger than we need!

That, in turn, should lead to lower real estate taxes in 1996.

RICHARD PARTRIDGE

Prospect Avenue

ous epidemiological childhood and occupational studies.

A compilation of the major epidemiological EMF studies is now available in the Princeton Public Library in a binder entitled "EMF Studies and Malignancy" (Reference Book #4).

Especially troubling is that while reported values in the library were as high as 5.9mG, PSE&G representatives admitted that the levels could rise another 50% during periods of peak power demand (in peak summer and winter seasons).

Moreover, the Coalition has also measured EMF values well in excess of 2mG at residences along Leigh Avenue, the Princeton Medical Center, Familyborn and HighTop Teen Center, as well as at the entrances to businesses along Witherspoon and Nassau streets.

The elevated EMF readings around Princeton's downtown and the preponderance of epidemiological evidence tells us that we may have a problem not only at the library but in other locations as well. The solution lies in determining all areas where Princeton residents and workers are exposed to elevated EMF levels and in requiring PSE&G to mitigate these emissions at their source.

This does not mean, and the Coalition has never advocated, that the library should be moved, but rather that PSE&G move the substation and the associated electrical lines.

The Coalition's efforts to investigate the level of EMF radiation from electrical lines in the Princeton area have so far been thwarted by PSE&G. PSE&G denied our request for a copy of the electrical grid map for the Borough and Township despite its admission in company literature that the public has a right to know about EMF hazards.

We are asking PSE&G to reconsider our request in the interest of providing a "safe electric power environment" for Princeton customers and workers.

Once more we challenge PSE&G to work with the Coalition and the community and indeed, to take the lead in mitigating EMF emissions in Princeton and in protecting our children from this environmental health hazard. The responsibility is ultimately PSE&G's, both financially and otherwise, for remediation. Let's not forget that PSE&G owns both the substation and the power lines.

and panelists Bob Prunetti, Mercer County Executive; Karen Alexander, Director of Public Affairs for Ogden Martin Systems, Inc. (the company under contract to build and operate the proposed incinerator); and Gary Sondemeyer from the N.J. Department of Environmental Protection, as well as those who attended, for their participation in a lively, interesting, and informative discussion.

Areas debated were the health and environmental effects of incineration, the finances of the project, and the experiences of other New Jersey counties and elsewhere, with and without incinerators, and the case for the incinerator.

We are grateful to TOWN TOPICS for printing publicity about this meeting which helped attract 120 people interested in getting a better understanding of the issues and the alternatives.

The forum developed the fact that there have been a lot of changes since the '70s when incineration was believed to be a safe and efficient way of converting waste to electricity. Recycling has taken off, and there are burgeoning and profitable markets for recycled goods. Composting, another form of recycling already adopted by Monmouth and Ocean counties as an alternative to incineration, has become not only a popular way of reducing the solid waste stream, but also a step toward achieving a sustainable environment.

Among other points brought out were: 1) Dioxin, a known carcinogen and a substance linked to infertility and immune systems deficiencies, is created by incineration.

2) Both dioxin and heavy metals are dispersed into the air, even when the incinerator is functioning within legal (DEP) limits.

3) Most of these substances (which never break down) are deposited on the ground and water within 20 miles of the source. (Duck Island, the site of the proposed incinerator, is on the south side of Trenton, less than 20 miles from all of Princeton.)

4) The ash that is left after incineration is comparable in

Princeton Officials Express Support For the Construction of Route 92

To the Editor of Town Topics:

As two longtime Princeton residents who have served their communities for decades in elected and volunteer capacities we would like to express our support for the construction of Route 92. In accordance with resolutions passed by both Princeton Borough and Township, we are asking that the roadway be built from Exit 8A of the New Jersey Turnpike to Route 27.

The basic charge of any government official is working to satisfy current needs of the citizenry, as well as planning to meet future needs. In our opinion, the needs for Route 92, both now and in the future, are blatant and pressing — and have become more so each year since the 1930s when the need for the road was first recognized.

For years, the region has been hampered by a lack of adequate east-west highway access. Such inaccessibility is far more than just an inconvenience. It translates into a great economic liability for the region and the entire state of New Jersey. The problems have become more pronounced in recent years as the area's population has continued to grow.

Related to this lack of east-west access is the traffic congestion that not only hinders the economy of the region but also eats away at the quality of life of the residents. The smaller local roads that serve as east-west connectors are severely overcrowded and ruining residential neighborhoods, which suffer from increased noise and air pollution, as well as increased safety problems.

Route 92 is needed to provide relief to these overburdened roads and to improve the quality of life for the residents living along these small connector roads.

Many opponents of Route 92 have argued that the building of the road would lead to further traffic problems — "if you build it, they will come." This argument is flawed because it ignores the fact that already-approved development and current zoning in several of the Central Jersey communities would allow the growth that would leave the local communities far more overcrowded than these communities now are.

Traffic experts estimate that many of the local east-west roads would need to be expanded three and four times in order to handle future traffic if Route 92 were not built. We certainly have no intention of doing that to our local roads through Princeton.

In addition, some area residents have raised concerns about potential damage to the environment. These fears seem to be misplaced, because experts called upon by the municipalities consistently have found that Route 92 would minimally affect wetlands while improving air quality.

We truly believe that careful planning of the roadway can greatly minimize the impact of Route 92 on residential neighborhoods and only ultimately maximize the quality of life for the residents and businesses in this region.

REAL ESTATE AND YOU

By Tod Peyton

SECURING YOUR HOME WHEN YOU ARE AWAY

When you are away from home for a few days or for a long vacation, simple precautions can reduce your vulnerability to burglary or vandalism while you are gone.

It is a good idea to make your house appear to be occupied. If you are away overnight, you might leave a few lights burning, and if you are on an extended trip you should consider buying an automatic timer that will turn your lights on and off at preset intervals. Don't let milk, newspapers, mail, or other deliveries pile up at your front door. Let your next door neighbors know you will be away and ask them to keep an eye on your house—you can also ask the police to check periodically. Before you leave, lock your windows and double lock the doors. These precautions will contribute to your peace of mind and help you relax and enjoy your travels.

For dependable, individual advice on buying or selling real estate, call Tod Peyton, Realtor or any Peyton Associate at 921-1550. Feel free to stop by my office at 343 Nassau Street in Princeton.

volume to raw trash after all recyclable materials have been removed, and what's left is shredded and compacted. Incinerator ash, therefore, takes up as much space in a landfill.

5) The estimated cost of the incinerator over 20 years is one billion dollars!

Many in the audience were confused by the differing statistics quoted by the opposing speakers, who seemed to be talking about totally different subjects at times. As a result of this and the previously mentioned changes since the '70s, it was suggested that, while the project is on hold, independent experts should be contracted to do a study to determine whether this project should be replaced by newer technology which would be less hazardous to health and less of a financial burden.

People in favor of this strategy should write to Mercer County Executive Robert Prunetti and either deliver the letter in person at the Freeholder meeting on Tuesday, February 21 at 5 p.m., or send it in care of one of the addresses below so that it can be delivered for you.

The Freeholder meeting will take place in Room 211 of the Administration Building located at 640 South Broad Street, Trenton. We encourage all who can make it to attend. Be sure to call 989-6583 to confirm the time.

News of the THEATRES

David Mamet Play On Tour to McCarter

A college professor and his female student engage in an explosive struggle in David Mamet's Oleanna, which will play one night only at McCarter Theatre on Tuesday, February 14 at 8.

Mr. Mamet, the Pulitzer Prize-winning author of Glengarry Glen Ross, The Verdict, The Untouchables and Speed-the-Plow, has written an impassioned response to the Clarence Thomas-Anita Hill hearings. Oleanna is direct, provocative and incendiary in its depiction of a confrontation between a university professor and his female student over an act of sexual harassment which did, or did not occur.

The national tour of Oleanna, starring Jim Frangione and Monica Koskey, has sparked debates and discussions at other universities across the country. Immediately following the performance, the two actors will be joined by Joyee Clark, associate dean of student life at Princeton University, who will lead a dialogue with audience members.

Mr. Frangione starred in Oleanna in New York and at the Kennedy Center, and also in Houston's Alley Theatre production. In New York, he was also seen in Woyzeck, Except in My Memory, Suicide in B Flat, and Spring Awakening. His film credits include Homicide and Hiding Out. Monica

David Mamet

Kaseky recently appeared in Oleanna at Actors Theatre of Louisville. Her off-Broadway credits include Iphigenia Among the Taurians which toured Vienna and Greece, and Another Person Is a Foreign Country.

Tickets are $19, $20 and $22. Tickets for students with valid ID are available for $10 each. To charge tickets by phone, call the McCarter box office at 683-8000.

Doing TV Commercials Topic of Class for Youth

Center Stage Kids is enrolling students interested in breaking into television commercials in a new class, Preparing for Commercial Auditions.

The class meets six Saturdays beginning January 28 at the Center Stage Kids Studio on Province Line Road. One session for students in grades one through six runs from 10 to noon. Students in grades seven through 12 meet from 1 to 3.

Preparing for Commercial Auditions is taught by Robert Perry. In Los Angeles, Mr. Perry acted in stage plays, television, film and commercial projects. He has also directed stage plays and has extensive experience teaching workshops. Mr. Perry is a graduate of New York University's Tisch School of the Arts, and has studied Meisner technique with Bobbie Chance in Los Angeles and Greg Zettel in New York.

He is continuing his performance career in New York while teaching at Center Stage Kids.

Preparing for Commercial Auditions will cover movement and expression, the improv commercial, working with text, cold readings, working with the camera, audition preparation, and the business of acting. The fee is $60, and class size is limited to 12 participants.

Center Stage Kids is a non-profit organization dedicated to inspiring students to greater self-expression and achievement through participation in the dramatic arts.

For additional information or to register, call Thomas von Oehsen, director at 466-4755.

Theatre Intime to Stage "Grotesque Lovesongs"

Theatre Intime will present Don Nigro's Grotesque Lovesongs as the first show of the 1995 spring season. Opening Thursday, February 2 at Murray-Dodge Theatre on the Princeton University campus, it will run Thursday through Sunday, February 2 to 5, and Thursday through Saturday, February 9 to 11.

The story of an Indiana family, Grotesque Lovesongs explores the bonds that tie families together. It will be directed by Jocelyn Bly Fredman '96, who recently directed Ron Clark and Sam Bobrick's Murder at the Howard Johnsons at Wilson Theatre.

Intime veteran Jennifer Grant '95 stars as Louise, a fiery woman with a secret past, who tries desperately to keep her relationship with somber husband Dan (John McHale '97) alive. Frank Distefano '95 is Pete, Louise's inquisitive and angered son who gradually forces his mother's secret into the open.

Louise's other son, John (Ned Locke '98), is driven to change his life irrevocably. Also caught in this cycle of passion and innocence is Romy (Holly Biola '95), struggling with the love she feels for these two extraordinary brothers.

All shows begin at 8. Tickets are $10 general admission, $8 for seniors, faculty and staff, and $5 for students. For reservations call Theatre Intime at 258-4950.

"Love Letters" Opens At Hopewell Theater

Two Off-Broadstreet Theatre veterans have been cast in the upcoming production of A.R. Gurney's Love Letters, opening this Friday.

Laura Jackson of Lawrenceville will play Melissa Garner and Jerry Dunn of Trenton will play Andrew Makepeace Ladd III. We meet these two characters and learn of their 50-year relationship through the letters they write to each other over the years. Both characters are from rich WASP families, both are sent to the best schools and both face high parental expectations.

She is a somewhat free-spirited and witty soul who lives life with great abandon. He is a more rigid and responsible person who follows the expected path of lawyer and politician. Melissa observes late in the play that it is astonishing that the two of them could have come from such similar backgrounds yet turn out to be so radically different.

Works by Three American Composers Heard in Chamber Symphony Concert

Aaron Copland's immensely popular Appalachian Spring is rarely heard in its original, 13-instrument version. The Chamber Symphony of Princeton, led by conductor Mark Laycock, gave the work a clean and credible reading on Sunday afternoon in Richardson Auditorium. Although the familiar and lush "Simple Gifts" theme did not have the monumental impact it would have had with a full orchestra, the precise string playing in this performance caught the unpretentious American spirit Copland intended in the work.

The performance began with a clarinet solo, played by Paul Cardenuto, which returned throughout the piece. The 13 instruments in this orchestration, which included flute, clarinet, bassoon, and nine strings, created a musical atmosphere reminiscent of Copland's chamber operas. The sound was clean and accurate with one instrument on a part — possible because of Chamber Symphony's strength in winds. Mr. Cardenuto, flutist Jayn Rosenfeld, and bassoonist Wendy Large played with lyricism and attention to detail throughout the piece.

Solo violinist Chantel Juillet was featured in the second piece on the program, Kurt Weill's Concerto for Violin and Wind Instruments, Op. 12. Ms. Juillet has received considerable acclaim in her native Canada as well as the United States, including winning six consecutive Grand Prizes at the Canadian Music Competition. Weill's Concerto is, as Mr. Laycock explained in his remarks to the audience, one of the most difficult in the concerto repertoire. As music director, Mr. Laycock matched his solo artist and concerto wisely, and Ms. Juillet rose to the challenge.

The piece was also performed with a small ensemble of winds and two string basses. This instrumentation enabled the violin soloist to further accentuate the prowess of her playing, as there was no other string sound to draw attention away from the soloist. From the continuous playing in the first movement to the acrobatic and nonstop performance demands later in the work, Ms. Juillet never let up for a minute, and played the piece cleanly and with flair.

Mr. Laycock closed the program with a rarely-heard work by Victor Herbert, Serenade for String Orchestra, Op. 12. Using the full orchestra, Mr. Laycock presented this classical work from a composer better known for his popular pieces, to emphasize the German compositional roots in Herbert's music. Serenade for String Orchestra is broken into five musical vignettes, each with a different flavor or mood.

Mr. Laycock found the dance-like qualities in the second movement Poconaise, as well as the sensitive melodies of Liebes-Scene. Delicate endings to movements were the trademarks of this performance, as well as melodic line, especially from the violas in the Finale.

The three composers whose music was performed on this concert are linked by their American heritages (Copland was born in America; Weill and Herbert emigrated to the United States and established significant reputations here), yet their works are also marked by their roots in cultures far from these shores. Copland is often considered the musical symbol of America, and Weill and Herbert assimilated the musical performance styles of their time while helping to create new "American" art forms.

Chamber Symphony of Princeton will present its next performance on Sunday, March 12, at 4 in Richardson Auditorium. Featured on the program will be music by Bach, Tania Leon, and Tchaikovsky, as well as violist Rozanna Weinberger. Ticket information may be obtained from the Chamber Symphony box office at 497-0020.

IT'S NEW To Us

Quick Tix for Big Hits At "Shore Shot" Tickets

You really want to see that hit show, you've saved up for good seats, and you can't wait for the big night. The problem is that the really good seats are not always available, and many spectators are disappointed to find themselves relegated to the balcony or bleachers, where the view and acoustics are far from the best.

It was precisely this kind of situation that led to the establishment of "Shore Shot" Tickets, owned by Al and Brian Siano.

TIP-TOP TICKETS: "The thrill of getting good seats really appeals to people. We can get much better tickets that are not readily available to the public for Broadway shows, concerts, and sporting events." Brian Siano, owner of "Shore Shot" Tickets, a ticket brokering service located at Princeton Fitness Center in the Princeton Shopping Center, can help customers get the best seats for top shows and special events, even at short notice.

Siano.

"We get the tickets from other brokers. For Broadway shows, we specialize in the first 10 to 15 rows. For concerts, we offer three price ranges — the first 10 rows right on the floor, the first level — medium range seats, and the first level toward the back."

Legitimate Business

Equally good seats are available for sporting events. Football, basketball, hockey, and baseball (when there is a season) are all very popular tickets. "We do a very big business with baseball tickets," says Mr. Siano. "We can get them from $15 to $17, and they are always down low near the field."

He also emphasizes that "We are not scalpers. We get 20% to 25% of the ticket cost. This is a completely legitimate business, and we belong to the East Coast Ticket Broker's Association."

For those willing and able to pay top price, "Shore Shot" Tickets certainly offers convenient service, and in fact, there is a variety of prices. Broadway tickets range from $130 to $160 (including "Shore Shot's" fee), an event such as the recent New York Rangers' opening hockey game went for from $175 to $200 a ticket, whereas concert tickets and other events cover a wide spectrum, with some starting as low as $26 to $28.

Also, Mr. Siano points out that New York prices are always higher. "There are lots of concerts and sporting events in Philadelphia, and these are less than in New York. New York prices are a lot higher because of the higher demand."

Right now the hot Broadway shows are "Show Boat," "Tommy," and "Beauty and the Beast," he says, and of course, the Super Bowl is one of the biggest ticket events, as are the World Series and the college basketball championships.

Upcoming Concerts

"Also, when the Knicks were in the NBA finals, those tickets were very hot, and Barbra Streisand was very big last year. The reunion tour of Pink Floyd, and Billy Joel and Elton John together were very popular."

Mr. Siano reports that big upcoming concerts in New York and Philadelphia will be Plant and Page, R.E.M., Van Halen, and Tom Petty.

Although "Shore Shot" Tickets can obtain seats for Broadway shows, and concerts, sporting and special events in stadiums anywhere else in the country, it cannot get tickets for New Jersey events. "This is against the law," he explains, "because we are located in New Jersey."

"Also, we don't get tickets for the circus because in that case, we can't get better seats than the public can get. We always tell people when we can't do better than they could."

Mr. Siano says that word-of-mouth has been excellent, and that customers are coming from all over the Princeton area, as well as Northern New Jersey. "People love it when they can get great seats to an event they are really looking forward to, and we are glad to help out."

Mr. Siano, a mass communications major at Trenton State, has been involved with "Shore Shot" Tickets since its beginning, and he looks forward to establishing a permanent office in the Princeton area after his graduation. "I started working in the business when I was about 15, answering the phone, and later standing in line for tickets before we had the contacts with the other brokers. It's a great business, and I really enjoy dealing with the other brokers, and of course, pleasing the public."

Mr. Siano is also very grateful to John Law, owner of Princeton Fitness Center, for arranging office space. "John has been a real help in setting us up here. He is respected in the community, and we want to thank him."

"Also," he continues, "we want people to call us if they have any questions about our service. It's best to give us at least four or five days notice for any Broadway show. We can take your credit card number over the phone, and the tickets will be in the box office for you. If you want to pick them up here, we need a month's notice. For sports events, we suggest one week's notice, and for concerts, let us know as soon as you hear about it."

So — whether your choice is the opera, ballet, the latest Broadway hit, rock and roll, or sports, "Shore Shot" Tickets will help you get the best seats.

Ornamental Metalwork At Carfaro Iron Works

"I have big plans!" smiles Joseph Carfaro, owner of Carfaro Ornamental Iron Works.

Mr. Carfaro, who has been in the ornamental iron works all his life, is enthusiastic about his company's newest location at 2075 East State Street in Hamilton. "We opened here last October, and this is a good area for business. There's a lot of growth here, and it's a strong market. We have a good building, which we own, and 50,000 square feet for the shop. We do everything right here — everything is custom-made, cut, shaped, welded, painted, and finished right here on the premises."

Mr. Carfaro specializes in custom ornamental aluminum or steel railings, cast aluminum or cast iron furniture, window guards, decorative/functional columns, ornamental fences and gates, as well as lamp posts and mail boxes.

"There is a growing market for this," he notes. "People like the style of the old wrought iron look, and with different designs, it becomes more than just a functional railing, for instance. There's a look and a style to it."

"Also," he adds, "there is the safety code issue now. There are more requirements to have railings for safety purposes."

Mr. Carfaro is not only responsible for the overall operation of his company, he is a hands-on designer, as well, and he especially enjoys the creativity involved in custom design.

"We've done gates with grape vines and leaves that look so real, you'd think grapes were growing! You get a thrill when you see it in place, and you can always recognize your own work," he explains. "Every railing man has a custom touch for his scroll work. It's like a signature. Also, something we have that no one else has is that we own the patterns for some of our extrusion shapes. They are exclusive to us."

ORNAMENTAL METALWORK: "At Carfaro, our commitment is to produce the highest quality ornamental iron work, using true old-world craftsmanship, along with state-of-the-art technology. Our products include porch railings, custom window guards, balconies, decorative and structural columns, ornamental fences and gates." Joseph Carfaro, owner of Carfaro Ornamental Iron Works in Hamilton, is shown with samples, including an iron gate with forged leaves and vine design, black aluminum railing, ornamental chair, and wood look-alikes — white aluminum post and column.

Third Generation

Another specialty is aluminum columns, posts, and railings that are wood look-alikes. "These have a colonial and farmhouse look that is very popular," he explains, "and also, wrap-around porches with railings are coming back in style."

Mr. Carfaro, whose experience began when he was a boy helping his father and grandfathers in the family business in Plainfield, says that he always looked forward to having his own operation.

"I'm third generation. My grandfathers on both sides were in the business, and my father helped his father in it. I learned it at an early age, and I always hoped to try it on my own."

He had worked as a salesman for the company, and his territory included south and central New Jersey, and eastern Pennsylvania. When he decided to open in Hamilton, he was determined to offer customers high quality design, manufacture, and installation.

"Both my biggest pleasure and challenge is setting up this new state-of-the-art facility," he explains. "I'm very excited about the new baking oven and heated spray booth. The oven will give a baked finish, as well as other finishes, and with the booth, we'll be able to paint regardless of the weather, and we can custom-match any color."

"We also have a computer tracking system, which will track jobs through the shop from beginning to end. We know exactly what's happening by just looking at the computer. I also plan to have an incentive program for our employees.

"All of this will help us to offer the finest product," he continues. "The shop has to be a smoothly functioning machine and have everything in place, so it will produce the quality product we expect, and be a product that people will want and that is affordable."

All Kinds and Sizes

Mr. Carfaro notes that the company handles all kinds and sizes of jobs from three-step porch railings to extensive estate fences and gates. Residential, corporate, and commercial projects have included work for houses, high rises, banks, stores, and fire houses all over the area.

"Right now, we are doing the steel turn-out gear racks (to hold helmets, jackets, and boots) for the Hamilton Fire House."

He also emphasizes the customized aspect of Carfaro's work. "If they can draw it, we can do it! We have design catalogs and books, and we can always come up with ideas. We just need a blank page of paper and a pencil. You also need a good eye, a sense of design, and to know the capability of the materials you are working with. And, too, you need a good ear to listen to what people want."

He adds that he will go to customers' residences or businesses to see the location first hand and to take measurements. He also gives free estimates.

Costs are determined by the foot, with a typically simple three-step, four-foot platform iron railing approximately $450. The same railing in aluminum is $600. "The more intricate the design, the higher the cost," he explains. "And aluminum is especially popular now (80% to 90% of outside work) because it is lightweight and rust-resistant."

Ten percent discounts are offered for senior citizens, and coupon discounts are often available in local newspapers.

"We're the new kid on the block in this area," says Mr. Carfaro. "What is going to set us apart is our ability to provide painted aluminum and traditional iron products, custom-colored, at an affordable cost. We can really please the customer."

Carfaro Ornamental Iron Works is open Monday through Friday 8 to 5. 890-6600.

Gallery Talks Resume At Princeton Art Museum

Gallery talks at The Princeton University Art Museum will resume on Friday, February 3 with "Sir George Hayter and Victorian History Painting" by assistant registrar, Ann V. Gunn. The series of 30-minute talks, which are open to the public free of charge, concentrate on works from the museum's permanent collections and special exhibitions.

Programs this year include talks on Victorian history painting, Japanese art, and the work of contemporary artist Richard Diebenkorn. The talks are given on Fridays at 12:30 p.m. by museum staff, docents, University faculty, graduate students, and invited guests, and are repeated on Sundays at 3. They will continue through May.

The opening talk will focus on the two paintings at the center of the exhibition, "Sir George Hayter and Victorian History Painting, Latimer Preaching at Paul's Cross and The Martyrdom of Ridley and Latimer." These works are exemplary illustrations of Victorian history painting, but also are significant in the religious context of the time. Hayter chose to portray two heroes of the English Reformation and used them to highlight an anti-Catholic controversy of his time known as the "papal aggression." Ann Gunn will examine this controversy against the wider background of Victorian church dissent, and discuss the artistic traditions within which Hayter worked.

The next gallery talk, "Richard Diebenkorn: The Gentle Giant of Line and

"HALF FIGURE, ARMS RAISED," 1986, by Jonathan Shahn, can be seen in an exhibit of the artist's sculpture and related drawings at the Allan P. Kirby Art Center Gallery of The Lawrenceville School through January 31.

Space," will be given on February 10 and 12 by former museum docent Laverne George. Ms. George will discuss Diebenkorn's Ocean Park #21, on loan to the museum from the Schorr Family Collection. The title refers to the location of the artist's California studio and the number of the canvas to a series he painted there. The artist has left most of the clues to the development of this large composition, which, according to Ms. George, captures the helplessness of inanimate objects in the face of weather.

In Honor of Presidents

On February 17 and 19, graduate student Sally Mills will discuss "Portraits and Presidents at Princeton." Ms. Mills will introduce works from Princeton's portrait collection on view in Nassau Hall's Faculty Senate Room. In honor of Presidents' Day, special attention will be given to Charles Willson Peale's monumental portrait of George Washington at the Battle of Princeton (1784).

The final gallery talk for February, "Ceramics and Culture: Selections from the Collection of The Art Museum," on February 24 and 26, will be given by Mimi Hellman, Jacki Musacchio, and Amy Ogata, graduate students in the Department of Art and Archaeology and curators of the exhibition, "Ceramics and Culture: Selections from the Collection of The Art Museum," opening at the museum on February 14.

The exhibition and gallery talk will feature works drawn primarily from the Trumbull-Prime Collection of Pottery and Porcelain, the gift of William Cowper Prime, Class of 1843, which was the founding gift of The Art Museum in 1883.

The exhibition has been organized in conjunction with a graduate student symposium, "Arts and Domestic Life," to be held in McCormick 101 on March 4.

Exhibits

Two of Mercer County Community College's most expressive fine arts instructors — realist painter Mel Leipzig and photographer Louis Draper — are showing their works during the college's annual faculty art exhibition.

The show runs through February 24 at The Gallery, Mercer County Community College, 1200 Old Trenton Road, West Windsor, on the second floor of the Communications Center. Hours are 11 to 3 Monday through Friday. An opening reception for the artists will be held from 6 to 8 p.m. on Wednesday, January 25. The public is invited to attend.

The show features 11 large acrylic paintings by Mr. Leipzig, a long-time professor of painting and art history at Mercer and a well-regarded realist painter. These canvases, painted over the past four years, focus on figures in their environments; many of the works feature the artist or his children, Joshua and Francesca, who are now grown. The only landscape painting to be exhibited depicts several Mercer students gathered around a boulder at the back of the West Windsor campus.

Mr. Draper's portion of the exhibition includes a dozen prints from "New Jersey Artists," his series depicting painters, sculptors and other artists at work. Nine prints in the show are profile shots taken during his 1990 visit to the former Soviet Union, which he undertook as part of a Trenton area artists' exchange program.

Tiger Hockey Preparing To Face Yale Again

When they first met November 22, the Princeton hockey team desperately needed a victory against Yale to turn around a terrible (0-4) beginning in ECAC competition.

The Tigers squeezed out a 3-2 triumph in Baker Rink that night, and the turn around began in earnest. Over the course of the next month, they went 7-1-1, putting together the best unbeaten streak in more than 60 years. The high point came when they upset previously undefeated Maine on its own ice to capture the Dexter Classic Tournament in Orono.

But that was December, and when a new year and the current month began, coach Don Cahoon's skaters suddenly started to struggle again after Christmas break. A tie with Division III opponent Colby on January 3 didn't hurt half as much as a 2-2 deadlock with Dartmouth in Baker three nights later. A loss to Vermont the following evening closed out the unbeaten streak.

Another break, this one for exams, has idled Princeton since January 7, and now the Orange and Black is preparing for its return match with Yale. The situation is not quite as desperate as last November, but clearly this is a pivotal match-up for Old Nassau.

After Yale, it will take its most difficult road trip of the year to Cambridge and Providence to play the top two teams in the league, Harvard and Brown. A loss to the Elis, and Princeton could be looking at an 0-3 start after exams.

It enters the second half of the league campaign with a 4-5-2 mark (9-6-3 overall) and needs a victory over the Elis to regain the momentum and confidence it had for the final push in February and March. Currently sixth in the league standings, the Tigers are hoping to finish with a flourish.

At the very least they would like to gain home-ice advantage with a seventh or eighth place finish, or possibly even avoid the preliminary round altogether with a finish of sixth or higher. Ending with a winning record is also a goal.

Yale is beatable in New Haven. Princeton won there a year ago 4-2, but the Tigers will need an all-out effort to do it in what promises to be a hard-fought battle for three periods. These are two even teams that have struggled in recent years and are looking for more respect. The Bulldogs, who knocked off Union, 5-2, last Saturday, share sixth place in the standings with Old Nassau with an identical 4-5-2 mark (9-9-2 overall).

Statistics released by the ECAC office recently are interesting. Through the first half of the season, Princeton ranks third in power play efficiency, scoring just over 21% of the time, behind Vermont and RPI. However it is near the bottom in penalty killing at 79.6%, ahead of only Dartmouth and Cornell.

In overall special teams play, which adds goals scored both on power plays and while shorthanded, and subtracts goals scored by opponents in the same situation, the Tigers are seventh with a net zero. They have 13 power-play goals and one shorthanded tally, and have given up 10 power play and four shorthanded goals. Harvard and Vermont are first with a plus eight; Cornell is last with a minus eight.

Princeton's positions in the team offense and defense categories don't support the image of a team that has good defense, but needs to score more. The Tigers are fourth in the league in offense with 4.04 goals per game, but ninth in defense, allowing 4.12 goals per game. Clarkson ranks first in offense with 6.26, Harvard is first in defense with 2.82.

One statistic that makes Cahoon happy is the team penalty minutes. The Tigers are just where the coach wants them to be in that category: dead last, with just 14.4 minutes served per game. Clarkson is first with 30 minutes per contest.

Tigers Crush Dickinson, But Bigger Battle Awaits

Do you warm up for a fight with the school bully by beating up on the president of the chess club? If you do, that's good news for the bully.

Princeton, scheduled to battle Pennsylvania on the Quakers' home court this Saturday, faced Division III also-ran Dickinson on Monday night in Jadwin Gym. The Tigers shellacked the Red Devils 75-42 without breaking a sweat.

The win was no surprise, but it raised questions about Princeton's preparedness for their upcoming battle with the two-time defending Ivy League champion Quakers.

Nothing about the Dickinson offense compares to the power of Matt Maloney and Jerome Allen in the Penn backcourt, and the lopsided win over the Red Devils was Princeton's only game in the past 16 days.

The biggest news of the night was what was going on off the court rather than the game itself. Before the start of the game, Mitch Hender-

Henderson, who was named Ivy League Rookie of the Week in December, severely sprained his ankle in practice on Sunday, and will be sidelined for most, if not all, of the remainder of the season.

Henderson's ankle injury shifts sophomore captain Sydney Johnson from shooting guard back to point guard, and moves sophomore Chris Long into the starting lineup.

Red Devils Bedeviled

Dickinson scored four early points in the first minutes, but dried up shortly afterward. Princeton led by as much as 37-5 in the first half, behind the performance of senior captain Rick Hielscher.

The 6'9 center, whose had knees have hampered him this season, scored 18 points in 13 minutes before Coach Pete Carril sat him down in the first half. He ended the game with 20 points on nine-for-nine shooting from the floor.

A good performance against Penn on Saturday will push Hielscher over the 1,000 career point mark — he currently has 983.

Of all the Super Bowl games in history, which one ended with the closest score? ... It was Super Bowl 25 when the Giants beat the Bills, 20-19 ... The biggest one-sided game was Super Bowl 24 when the 49ers beat the Broncos, 55-10.

Can you imagine a football game ending with a score of 1-0? ... How's that possible? ... It did happen on Sept. 4, 1993 when Morehouse College of Atlanta beat J.C. Smith College, 1-0 ... Smith's coach pulled his team off the field after a dispute with the referee, and the officials forfeited the game to Morehouse ... The official score of a forfeit in football is 1-0, and so the final score of that game goes down in the record books as 1-0.

Of all the players in big league baseball history, which one set the most records? ... Answer is Ty Cobb who set more than 90 hitting records — far more than any other player ... Tigers leading 42-11, and Princeton coasted through the second half, giving reserve players a lot of time on the court.

In addition to Hielscher's 20, the Tigers got 11 points from Chris Doyal and nine from Steve Goodrich. Doyal handed out a game-high five assists, and Goodrich, making his first start at forward, grabbed 10 rebounds to lead all players.

A Difficult Blow

The loss of Henderson was unexpected and painful. "Sometimes teams and individuals have bad luck," said Carril after the game. "Mitch was playing pretty good ... now it looks like he might be out for quite a while."

Carril said that Henderson had been wearing an ankle guard all year, and that Sunday was the first time he had played without it.

Some of the Tigers are optimistic about their chances against the Quakers on Saturday. Long admitted to a case of nervousness with his new role as starting guard, but was still upbeat.

"From what I've seen and heard, they're a great team. I feel that if we play our own game and are as flawless as possible, we have a chance to beat them."

Hielscher, who has seen the Quakers more than once, was less in awe. "I don't think we have to play a perfect game to beat them."

The Tiger-Quaker match will be televised by Prism on Saturday night.

After squeaking into the No. 25 slot in some national polls last week, the Quakers dropped a game to St. Joseph's and fell out of the rankings.

Penn beat LaSalle 90-71 on Tuesday before falling 92-82 to the Hawks in overtime on Saturday. As Princeton mugged Dickinson on Monday, Penn was doing the same to Lafayette, boosting their record to 10-3 with a 92-57 win.

Penn is currently 2-0 in Ivy league play, good enough to tie Cornell in the top spot.

In limited Ivy action this week, Yale beat Brown 63-52, and Cornell topped Columbia for the second time this year, 66-59.

—Rob Garver

won, they are assured a berth in the state tournament; if not, they need to win one of their next three games in order to qualify.

Of those three, the Ifamil-ton match seems the most promising prospect. As of Monday, the Hornets were 4-4 in conference play.

Ilun is a solid team with an impressive 13-4 record. They are led by senior transfer student Greg Burston, whose average 25.6 points per game makes him the top scorer in the area. The Raiders have played no games against good local competition, so it is hard to say how they will stack up to PIIS.

There is no question about what PHS will face from Ewing. The Blue Devils lead the Colonial Division with a 7-1 record. They have a nicely balanced offense that highlights, but is not limited to, senior guard Jody Conover and junior forward J.R. Harrison, who combine for 29 points per game.

The Top Valley Slot

The significance of this week's games does not end with the Tigers needing only one win to guarantee themselves a spot in the tournament and a shot at a fourth CJII title. If PHS can come up big against Nottingham, Hamilton, and Ewing, they might find themselves sitting atop the Valley Division heap.

McCorristin, the current leader, is 7-1 in conference play; PHS and Notre Dame trail with 6-2 records.

The Mikes, however, have had two shaky outings recently against mediocre conference competition (Nottingham and Lawrence) and might be headed for a fall. They will be facing the class of the Colonial Division this week, in Ewing and West Windsor-Plainsboro.

Sandwiched between those games will be the Mikes' annual trip to Notre Dame, meaning that one of Princeton's two closest competitors in the Valley is guaranteed a loss on that night.

Webber Scores 26

Kirk Webber led PHS past a dangerous Hightstown squad last Tuesday, scoring 26 points and pulling down 11 rebounds on the way to a 59-48 finish.

PHS took a 16-12 lead in the first quarter, but Hightstown scored the first two points of the second quarter, tying the score at 16-16. A small surge put the Tigers ahead again, and they pulled into the halftime break with a slim 27-23 lead.

The Tigers returned from the locker room and played an inspired third quarter, outscoring Hightstown 15-7 to take a 42-31 lead. Both squads were even in the fourth, with 17 points, leaving the Tigers' lead intact.

Tracy Wade and Dawud Towler each scored nine points for PHS; Jason Carter contributed six.

The Hopewell Valley Bulldogs came a little closer to PHS than was expected last Friday, but it still wasn't very close, as PHS won 59-48.

HoVal hung around into the third quarter, tying the game at 30-30 in the opening minutes, but then PHS turned on the jets. The Tigers pulled away quickly, outscoring the Bulldogs 13-2 over the remainder of the half, and coasting through the final eight minutes.

Webber was high man again, with 26 points. Guards Wade and Foreal Wooten scored 13 and 10, respectively, and Dawud Towler netted six.

—Rob Garver

SHOOTING FOR 1,000 is Princeton High Senior Kirk Webber. The senior center was 21 points shy of a career mark of 1,000 going into Tuesday's game with Nottingham. If Webber was under 21 points on Tuesday, the milestone should be reached at home on Thursday against Hamilton in a 7 p.m. game.

For PHS Hockey Team, The Struggle Continues

The Princeton High School ice hockey team continued to struggle this week, extending their season-long losing streak to 10 games with a 7-0 loss to Hightstown.

It was, as usual, a lopsided affair. The 12-2-1 Rams took a 2-0 lead in the first period, scored one goal in the second, and exploded for four more in the third, all the while holding the Tigers to four shots.

Princeton goalie Ron Ira faced 49 shots from the Rams, and stopped 42 of them.

Princeton was scheduled to play a very tough Hun squad on Tuesday, and will face Lawrence on Wednesday. They will meet Hopewell on Monday.

Stuart Skaters Defeat Two Princeton Rivals

After losing a close contest, 4-3, to Pingry School on Wednesday, January 18, the Stuart hockey team shut out both of its Princeton rivals last week. The Tartans skated by Princeton Day School, 3-0, on Friday, and trounced Princeton High School, 9-0, on Saturday. The win-loss record for coach Jim Higgins' team is now 2-4.

Against Pingry, Gia Fruscione scored an unassisted goal in each of the first two periods, but Pingry still led, 4-2, as the teams entered the final minutes of play. Then Nicky Karluk, assisted by Jane Weiner, put one between the posts for the Tartans — but the final buzzer sounded before Stuart could tie it up.

Stuart goalie Sara Applegate made 17 saves in the shutout win over PDS. Caiti Higgins scored once in the first period and once in the third, but was lost to the Tartans after a hard check into the boards resulted in a shoulder separation. Jonelle Lupero tallied the other goal for Stuart, on a pass from Fruscione.

Applegate recorded her third shutout of the season with 12 saves against PHS. The outcome of the contest was never in question, as Stacy Sparella paced the Tartans with a hat trick. One of her goals was a brilliant play where she stole the puck as she came out of the penalty box, zipped down the ice and found the net. Lupero supplied two goals and two assists, followed by Karluk with one goal and one assist. Fruscione tallied once, and

TOWN TOPICS High School Athlete of the Week

TOWN TOPICS nominates Princeton Day School junior Matt LaBosco for High School Athlete of the Week. A guard on the young Panther basketball squad, LaBosco proved this week that he is a team leader in all facets of the game.

The Panthers lost a host of seniors to graduation last year, and have four juniors and one sophomore in their starting lineup. In spite of their inexperience, PDS has posted a 9-7 record that includes a win over Princeton High and a near-miss against Hun. They have managed four wins in their last six games.

In a 62-55 win over Hopewell Valley last Thursday, LaBosco turned in some impressive numbers. He posted a "triple double," with 18 points, 12 rebounds, and 10 assists. He is currently the team's second leading scorer, with 11.7 points per game, trailing only Peter Denby who scores 12.7.

Matt LaBosco

Against Hun on Monday, LaBosco led the Panthers in scoring with 16 points. He was a threat from the inside, driving the lane for an important bucket late in the game, but he also struck from the outside, nailing two three-pointers. An integral part of the Panthers' half court press defense, he caused a number of Hun turnovers.

The Panthers have really come together in the last few weeks, leading some to believe that in spite of an early-season loss to last year's champion Wardlaw-Hartridge, LaBosco and company might be able to make a run at the Prep "B" crown.

German exchange student Gesa von Bock scored her first goal ever.

"We are playing better as a team," said Stuart coach Higgins. "I am glad to see such tremendous improvement from Karluk, Emma Trask and Sarah Gomez. Having Caiti miss one to three weeks with her shoulder injury will hurt us, though."

The Tartans will travel to the Washington, D.C. area on the weekend to play two club teams: the Washington Red Coats on Saturday and Chevy Chase on Sunday.

Two Losses Recorded By Stuart Basketball

The Stuart basketball team lost to Hightstown High School, 43-30, last Wednesday, and Peddie, 48-35, last Saturday. The win-loss record for coach Bill Holup's team is now 5-6.

The Tartans came out fighting against Hightstown, but trailed 13-10 at the close of the first quarter. Hightstown cranked up its defense as the second quarter began; Sara Burchell was the only Stuart player able to score in the entire period. Tartan Schevilla Courtney finished the game with a team-high 10 points. Patrice O'Leary scored eight. Burchell and Maria Korsgaard contributed four each. Eliza Hoover and Jenita Davis chipped in two apiece. Angela Piscitelli, Caela Shapiro and Elisa Schement-Heck also played in the losing effort.

On Saturday, a strong Peddie team outplayed Stuart from the start. Courtney again led the Tartans, scoring 17 points. O'Leary played well once more, notching eight points. Davis racked up six, followed by Hoover and Shapiro with two each.

This week, the Tartans will host Solebury on Friday. The game against Hopewell Valley High School originally scheduled for Thursday has been canceled.

PDS Hockey Loses Two Its Record Now Is 5-6

The Princeton Day hockey team suffered a pair of losses last week, and saw its record dip below the .500 mark at 5-6. The Panthers lost to Hill, 6-4, on Wednesday, and 14-7 to St. Joseph's on Friday.

In the Hill game, the Panthers took a 3-2 lead after one period on goals by Matt Zarzecki (Roy Lynam assist), Dan Knipe (Ren Thompson assist) and Jeff Overman's unassisted tally. But, the visitors tallied twice in the second to pull ahead, 4-3. They increased that margin to 5-3 in the third, before another goal by Knipe (Steve Nanfara and John Leahy assists) pulled PDS within one.

Hill then added an insurance goal near the end. The winners outshot PDS 35-20, with PDS goalie Wes Stefens making 29 saves.

Coach Matt Lustig's team has just one game on the schedule this week, a contest against Portledge School Friday.

PDS Basketball Splits, Beaten by Hun, 71-61

The Princeton Day boys' basketball team split its games last week, beating Hopewell Valley and losing to Hun.

Meeting Hopewell Valley for the second time this season, after a 62-55 triumph a month ago, PDS defeated the Bulldogs more convincingly at home last Thursday, 68-49. The Panthers left no doubt where they were headed from the opening tip-off, leading 14-7 after one period. They increased the margin every quarter thereafter.

Matt Labosco was everywhere for the Blue and White, scoring 18 points, grabbing 12 rebounds and garnering 10 assists. Eric Boyd tallied 19, and two others also reached double figures, Pete Denby with 12 and Jaron Randall with 11.

Against Hun, Labosco again led the way with 16 points, Denby finished with 14 and Boyd had 13. This week Princeton Day will face Pingry on the road Thursday, and return to Prep B action Friday with a game against Morristown-Beard at home.

Hun Outlasts PDS 71-61 In Exciting Local Game

It took some Greg Burston magic and some atrocious PDS foul shooting, but the Hun School basketball team topped the Panthers on Monday evening, 71-61.

"It was exactly what I had expected," said Hun coach Kevin Long. "I knew they'd play us tough. I knew they'd take it to us if we didn't come to play. I'm really happy with this win."

He must have been particularly pleased with Greg Burston, his 6'3 senior swingman. Burston finished the game with 34 points, showing off all facets of his game on the way. He sank three buckets from outside the three-point line, drove the baseline for a dunk in the first quarter, and turned in a key three-point play in the closing minute to seal the win for Hun.

PDS turned in a fine team performance from everywhere except the foul line, where they were eight-of-19 overall and seven-of-17 in the second half. The Panthers matched Hun from behind the three-point arc, with five buckets. They also put a stifling half-court trap on the Hun guards that resulted in numerous steals and intercepted passes.

Riding a seven game winning streak, and having won 10 of their last 11 games, the Raiders may not have expected a Prep "B" squad to give them such a battle.

PDS struck first in the early going, with two unanswered buckets after the opening tip. Hun's offense settled quickly, and moments later, Burston took the ball on the left baseline, juked his defender, and drove to the hoop for a dunk that set the Hun supporters on fire.

The dunk rattled the backboard, but not the Panthers, who stayed in their offense and retaliated. With Hun in a help-side man-to-man defense, the Panthers had some success in drawing the defenders out of the key and beating them with cuts and sharp passes into the paint.

The Panthers stayed close throughout the first quarter, which saw the score tied seven times. Hun held an 18-17 lead at the buzzer.

The teams were dead even in the second frame, with 11 points each. The Panthers got a fine performance in the paint from Zach David, who had four points and four rebounds in the first half alone.

Matt LaBosco provided much of the offensive spark for PDS in the first half, with eight points, three assists, and one rebound.

In the second half, the Panthers' poor foul shooting began to take a heavy toll. Coming into the third quarter behind by one point, they were outscored by the Raiders 20-14. The six-point difference would have been erased by the Panthers' six missed foul shots in that quarter.

The Raiders led 49-42 at the beginning of the fourth quarter. The opening minutes were largely a defensive contest, with PDS scoring once, and the Raiders making a single foul shot.

Hun's Eugene Baah boosted the Raider lead to nine by sinking two free throws at 4:56, but moments later, LaBosco drove the baseline around a Hun defender, and scored two more for PDS. Hun could not convert on their next possession, but two missed free throws by PDS made that immaterial.

At the 3:56 mark, LaBosco stole the ball in the Hun forecourt and threw a long pass to a sprinting Eric Boyd, who made the layup. On Hun's next possession, the Panther defense tied the ball up as soon as it crossed the half-court line, but the possession arrow pointed to Hun.

Baah went to the foul line shortly afterward, after being fouled while attempting a put-back of a missed Nick Giello three-pointer. He made both shots, to put the score at 55-48.

After causing another Hun turnover, the Panthers took the ball downcourt and Boyd drained a long three-pointer. After Hun's Jason Stanley made one of two from the foul line, LaBosco drove the ball straight down the paint to bring PDS within three points, 56-53, at the 1:34 mark.

After Stanley canned a jumper to make the score 58-53, PDS went to the line for two shots and came up empty.

Then Burston delivered the backbreaker. With 1:09 remaining, he drove down the lane on the right side, made the basket and drew the foul. His foul shot made the Hun lead eight points, and drove PDS to desperation.

The Panthers were reduced to tossing up improbable three-point attempts in the final minute while sending the Raiders to the line on every possession. The final score, 71-61, doesn't reflect the closeness of the game going into the final minutes.

In addition to Burston's 34, Hun got 17 from Baah, and 12 from Giello.

LaBosco led the Panthers with 16, followed by Pete Denby with 14, Boyd with 13, and David with eight.

PHS Next for Hun

The Raiders are gearing up to face their other local rivals this week. They will host Princeton High at 8 p.m. on Saturday.

Coach Long is pleased with his team's progress through the season, especially in the face of recent trouble with the flu and minor injuries. "A lot of guys have really been stepping up," he said.

"I'm really happy — none of these guys knew each other at the beginning of the year, and it was reflected in their play. We really have to take it up a level in February."

"They are a really unselfish group right now, and I think if that can continue, we'll do well."

Princeton High Matmen Crush Iron Mikes, 63-9

The Princeton High wrestlers made a pin cushion of the mats at McCarristin last Wednesday, scoring pins in nine bouts and cruising to a 63-9 victory.

Arjun Reddy set the pace for PHS in the 102 pound match, taking only 35 seconds to pin his opponent. Scott Townsend took 108 pounds in a forfeit, and Dave Ellis won at 114 with a pin at 1:06.

Team co-captain Chris Goettinger took his match at 121 pounds by forfeit, and at 128 Jaime Weinberg scored a pin at the 1:04 mark.

Co-captain Ryan Calder needed 26 seconds for a pin at 126 pounds, and Alex Brown delivered another at 5:12 in the 144 match.

Travis Linderman fell in a 12-10 decision at 153 pounds, but Nick Miles got PHS going again with a pin at 162. Eugene Senderov was pinned in the 172 pound bout, but PHS came back with two quick pins from Ashraf Rashad and Ken Graziano. In the 187 pound match, Rashad needed 24 seconds to pin his man, while Graziano battled for 2:56 before doing the same to his in the 217 bout.

The match, which had been over for a long time, officially ended with heavyweight Basil Zaki's 14-10 decision.

Princeton did not compete this week. The Tigers' next match will be at home against the Hopewell Valley Bulldogs at 7 p.m. on Wednesday.

Losing Streak Snapped: Hun Beats Rutgers Prep

The Raider girls' basketball team broke a seven-game losing streak over the weekend with an upset win on the road over Rutgers Prep, 31-25.

Hun roared out to a 10-2 lead in the first quarter, but Rutgers Prep rallied in the second, cutting the deficit to 14-11 at the half.

Hun maintained the lead, outscoring their hosts 17-14 in the second half to preserve the win.

Ivy Green and Leah Bills led the Hun attack, scoring eight points each. Cassie Lawton had six, Dana Hughes had four, Michelle Giller added three, and Tammy Scheer scored two.

The Raiders were blown out by Blair last Friday, 56-24, for their tenth loss of the season. Giller led the team with nine points, and Lawton followed with seven.

Hun will play Pennington Prep on Saturday, on the Red Raiders' home court. Their next game will be against Oak Knoll, at home, next Tuesday at 3:45 p.m.

Tigers' Three-Win Week Ends With a Close Shave

The PHS girls' basketball team started the week with a 63-40 win over Hightstown, but after that, the games started getting closer. The Tigers still squeaked out with three wins, though, improving their record to 8-4.

Sports

The week was capped by a 43-41 come-from-behind win over a Hopewell squad that seems to have Princeton's number.

The Bulldogs are 1-7 in CVC play, but they have given the PHS five a good game in two meetings this year. In late December, the Tigers escaped with a 62-59 win in the championship game of the Tiger Tournament.

Hoal appeared to be out for revenge on Friday, taking an 11-9 lead in the first quarter and expanding it to 26-18 at the half.

Down the stretch, though, the Tigers were just too strong for the Bulldogs. PHS trimmed the lead by three in the third quarter, and a 15-8 fourth quarter was just enough to put them over the top.

Laanna Carrasco's 20 points led all scorers. Grace Wiener added nine, and Nina Krieger scored eight.

After trailing PDS through most of last Wednesday's first half, PHS figured out the Panther defense and surged ahead into the lead.

The host Panthers opened the second quarter with a 9-2 run. Down 18-13, the Little Tigers quickly gained back their composure and went on a run themselves, scoring 16 points to their opponents six and closing the half with a 29-24 lead.

The teams played to a virtual deadlock in the second half. Princeton outscored the Panthers by two points in each quarter, and ended the game with a 54-45 win.

Carrasco led all scorers with 28 points. Krieger scored 14, and Wiener added 8.

After leading by only three points at halftime against Hightstown last Tuesday, PHS picked up the pace. The Tigers outscored the Rams

PHS Swimmer Eggert Sets Freestyle Record

Princeton High School senior Jan Eggert, one of the mainstays of the 2-4 PHS swimming team, set a school record in the 50-yard freestyle last week, clocking in at 23.23 seconds in Thursday's meet against Steinert.

The record had been held by Ben Girardet.

The undersized PHS squad has a hard time competing with other area teams, which are generally much larger. Eggert, however, has no trouble in individual events; he is currently undefeated in 50- and 100-yard freestyle events this year.

ONE-ON-ONE: Princeton Day School point guard Jenn Mitchell prepares to drive around Princeton High player Courtney Nolan during the game between the two cross-town rivals last Wednesday. PHS was the winner, 54-45.

40-20 in the second half, and coasted to a 63-40 win.

Carrasco threw down 23 points, and Courtney Nolan scored 10. PHS got eight apiece from Wiener, Ewa Halama, and Lucia Alcantara.

PHS played Nottingham at home on Tuesday, too late for this issue. Two away games follow: Hamilton on Thursday, and Ewing on Tuesday.

PDS Girls' Basketball Wins 2 of 3 Contests

The Princeton Day girls' basketball team captured two of three games last week, raising its record to 10-3.

There is a big one for the Panthers this week, a battle this Wednesday with Lawrenceville at PDS. Following that, coach Jill Thomas' girls will face an easier task against Morristown-Beard at home Friday.

The week started on a down note for Princeton Day last Wednesday, as it suffered its second consecutive loss, this one a 54-45 loss to crosstown rival Princeton High. The Panthers managed a two-point, 11-9, lead at the end of one, but the Little Tigers owned a 29-24 advantage after a decisive second period.

Dana DeCore had a big game with 22 points, almost half her team's total output, but no one else was in double figures. Lindsey Sternberg had seven points, and Sara Hart and Darcy Peifer, six apiece.

The following afternoon the Blue and White had its annual date with St. Mary's Hall, and the annual rout ensued. The Panthers led 12-2 after one, 38-8 after two, and it got worse from there. By the final whistle, St.

Mary's was looking at the short end of a 68-15 score. Peifer led the attack with 17, followed by DeCore with 15, Sternberg with 14 and Hart with seven.

Newark Academy wasn't any more of a match on Monday, beaten 58-19. The home team was held to just four points in each of the first three quarters for a grand total of 12. A scoring spurt in the fourth allowed the Minutewomen to finish with 19. PDS had 36 by halftime, and might as well have gotten back on the bus at that point. Sternberg led with 18 points and 14 rebounds, Peifer had 15.

Hun Hockey Halts Skid, Peppering Cardinals 8-3

The Raider hockey team had to wait a little longer than they expected to snap their two-game losing streak, but they did it. Last Thursday's match against the Pirates of West Windsor-Plainsboro was cancelled after WW-P added a game to their schedule. With four games scheduled in the space of a week, the Pirates were forced to drop a game from their schedule: they picked Hun. In an earlier meeting this season, Hun topped the Pirates 5-1.

The Raiders took the ice against Lawrence on Saturday, without having played a game in eight days. The lay-off did not appear to have bothered them.

Bill Renshaw scored two of his game-high three goals at the start of the first period, as the Raiders surged to a 4-0 lead. Ross Barbieri and Scott Gifis also scored in the first.

Henry Baker netted the Raiders' only goal in the second period, as Lawrence collected two.

In the third, Barbieri and Renshaw each scored again, their goals separated by a single Lawrence tally. Brian Wilby added one, to end the scoring with Hun ahead 8-3.

By the end of this week, the Raiders will have seen both ends of the CVC Hockey spectrum. On Tuesday, they hosted the Valley Division cellar dwellers, the 0-10 Princeton Tigers. After a week of rest, they will host Colonial Division-leading Hightstown (12-3-1) next Tuesday at 3:30 p.m.

Kingston Club Wins 6-4 In Battle with Princeton

Led by John Cook's two-goal, one-assist effort, the Princeton-based Kingston Hockey Club upped its record to 4-2 in the Commuter League's Southern Division and won the first skirmish in its annual "Battle of Princeton" with the Princeton Hockey Club last Friday night at Princeton University's Baker Rink by a 6-4 score.

Kingston led 1-0 after the first period on a goal by Dudley Fitzpatrick five minutes into the game, with an assist going to Dave Riviere. Two minutes into the second period, Cook scored his first goal, assisted by Steve Cook and Jim Rodgers. Four minutes later, Cook recorded his second tally, on a deft tip-in of a Charlie Hatfield shot, which had been set up nicely by Buzz Woodworth.

Princeton got back into the contest by virtue of strong goaltending by John Boyd, who had 30 saves on the night, and some breakaway opportunities. PHC scored the next three goals to tie the game at 3-3, on goals by Ulen DeStefano at 9:35 of the second period (assists to Jeff Barrett and Jeff Kenyon), Barrett at 17:59 (unassisted), and DeStefano at 0:55 of the third period (unassisted).

Kingston then took back control of the game, as it scored three times within six minutes. Riviere notched a goal at 9:11 (assisted by Rodgers), Hatfield scored a minute later (assisted by John Cook and Allen Fitzpatrick), and Woodworth (assisted by Arch Reid) closed out the scoring at 14:32.

Princeton added a meaningless goal at 19:36, when Mike Young scored, with assists from Barrett and Peter Schluter making the final score, 6-4, Kingston. Winning goalie Dan Fortunato made some strong stops among the 20 saves he recorded.

Kingston GM Bob Smyth was pleased with the team's performance, but said, "Our destiny still lies in the hands of others. We need someone to knock off Beacon Hill." Beacon Hill easily defeated Wissahickon over the weekend, 7-2, to run its division-leading record to 4-0.

Next up for the KHC is an important return match with Beacon Hill on Friday night at Princeton University's Baker Rink, with game time set for 10 p.m.

OBITUARIES

Wallace W. McLean, founder and president of McLean Engineering Laboratories until his retirement and a pioneer in cooling for electronics, died January 15 at his childhood home in Scarsdale. He was 78 and lived in Princeton for 58 years. Born in New York City, Mr. McLean attended The Hackley School in Tarrytown, N.Y., and The Lawrenceville School, where he was a member of the varsity tennis team and was active as a dance band pianist. He graduated from Princeton University in 1941 with a degree in electrical engineering.

During World War II, Mr. McLean taught pre-radar courses at the University under the auspices of the Navy Department. He served as an assistant professor in Princeton's Electrical Engineering Department until 1950.

In 1940, Mr. McLean founded McLean Engineering Laboratories in a loft on Nassau Street. The business began with the manufacture and installation of attic fans, and he personally installed a fan at the home of Albert Einstein. The business was moved to a large tract of land and a newly constructed plant in Princeton Junction in 1953, when the company entered the new field of cooling devices for electronic equipment.

McLean Engineering became a leader in this industry, providing cooling for virtually every project of the NASA program. From five employees in downtown Princeton, the firm grew to more than 100 employees by the late 1970s.

In the 1960s, when it encountered difficulty finding precision electric motors for its cooling devices, McLean began manufacturing its own motors at an upstate New York facility, which was eventually merged into the Princeton operation. In the 1970s, McLean Midwest was founded in Minnesota, dedicated to the manufacture of refrigeration cooling units.

Upon his retirement from the firm in 1982, Mr. McLean sold the business to Zero Corporation of Los Angeles, Calif., which later acquired McLean Midwest as well. Both the Minnesota and Princeton McLean divisions continue to operate as subsidiaries of Zero, under the McLean trade name.

Mr. McLean was a founder and member of the board of directors of West Windsor State Bank in Princeton Junction. He was a member of the Rotary Club of Princeton and founder of the Hightstown chapter of Rotary. He was a member of Princeton Engineering Association.

He served on the board of trustees of Bennett College in the 1970s and was on the board of The Hackley School at the time of his death. He was also on the board of Bicon Electronics Co., of Canaan, Conn.

Husband of the late Jean Stewart Sadler, who died in 1963, and brother of the late Catherine McLean Brook, he is survived by his wife, Marie Hedman; a son, Wallace D. McLean II of Guilford, Vt.; a daughter, Margaret L. Livingston of Boulder Creek, Calif.; two stepdaughters, Mary Ann Gomez of Phoenix, Ariz., and Susan M. Jackson of Princeton.

The service will be at the convenience of the family, with burial in Ferncliff Cemetery.

The service was held Thursday at Mt. Pisgah AME Church, the Rev. Vernal Leak, pastor, officiating. Burial was in Princeton Cemetery.

Helena Woodbridge Wolfe, 87, died January 17 at Princeton Medical Center. Born in Peekskill, N.Y., she was a longtime resident of Princeton and Keene Valley, N.Y.

Mrs. Wolfe graduated from the Scarsdale School in Scarsdale, N.Y. and Smith College, Class of 1927.

Wife of the late Dr. Paul A. Wolfe, a Presbyterian minister, and mother of the late Dr. Julia W. Loomis, she is survived by three daughters, Helena, W. Potter of Plattsburgh, N.Y., Dr. Barbara W. Jancar-Webster of Spencerport, N.Y., and Debora W. Tuck of Belfast, Maine; seven grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

The service was held Saturday at Nassau Presbyterian Church, the Rev. Cynthia A. Jarvis officiating. Burial will be in Keene Valley Cemetery, Keene Valley, N.Y.

Memorial contributions in her name may be made to the Keene Valley Library Association, Keene Valley, N.Y. 12943 or Smith College.

Clara B. Yancey Hinson, 78, died January 14 at the Merwick Unit of Princeton Medical Center. Born in Clarksville, Va., she had been an area resident since 1925.

CLEVELAND LANE

"Charming" — by definition — delightful, alluring, captivating — a perfect description of this Victorian gem on this historic western Princeton street. A picturesque stoop framed in ironwork shelters the handsome double doors. The hall opens to a vision of bright sunlit rooms with long windows, high ceilings, elegant moldings, glowing wide pine floor and tasteful decor. The living room features a unique mantel as does the library. The gracious dining room has a quaint fireplace and opens to a porch, a large flagstone patio and beautiful grounds. The powder room features a Laura Ashley design. A sunny breakfast room adjoins the kitchen. On second floor, the front area includes the master bedroom, and another bedroom. In the rear are a sitting room/study, hall bath, and a bedroom and a bath. On third floor, two bedrooms and a new bath. A very special house.

PRINCETON ACUPUNCTURE

Stopped by sports injuries? Acupuncture is a highly effective way to treat persistent conditions such as muscular tension and chronic tendinitis. Very fine needles, inserted into specific points at the skin's surface, relieve pain and restore overall balance in 5-15 one hour sessions.

Traditional Chinese medicine has a 3,000 year track record of successfully treating: Achilles tendinitis, shin splints, sciatica, tennis elbow, arthritis and muscle spasms.
